Police seeking 15 to 20% pay increase

by JOHN MAES

Buffalo Grove police are seeking a 15 to 20 per cent increase in pay this year, Patrolman William Bennett, police spokesman, said Wednesday.

Bennett said police have had little indication as to whether the request will be granted but said Police Chief Harry J. Walsh has reacted favorably to the proposal.

"We'll hope for the best," he said, "But there's no way to lead us to believe one way or another."

The police department currently has 24 officers, including five sergeants and Walsh.

BENNETT SAID the department has a good performance record in the last few years, one basis for the request. He also said many department members are attaining higher levels of education.

Last year, police salaries were increased between 6 and 7.8 per cent.

The police request will be submitted to the village board in the 1975-76 fiscal budget along with pay proposals for other village workers. Some 130 full and part-time employes are on the village payroll.

Village Mgr. Daniel Larson said Wednesday he will discuss pay raises for all village workers with department heads this week and recommendations will be made to the village board within two weeks.

LARSON SAID he still needs some "background information" to help determine what kind of pay increases should be recommended.

He said any proposal made to the village board will have to be agreed on by himself and individual department heads.

Larson refused to comment on raises saying there are "still too many unknowns — it's difficult to put a handle on it."

He also said he could not answer whether village workers will definitely receive pay increases saying that decision rests with village trustees who must vote on the matter.

OFFICIALS REMAIN uncertain, he said of how much in sales tax revenue will be generated by new major retail developments such as the Plaza Verde and Lieberman shopping centers. Taxes from Grand Spaulding Dodge on Dundee Road are also still a question mark because of sagging auto sales, he said.

Projection of revenues that will come from those sources will be a factor in the amount of proposed wage hikes, Larson said.

Village officials will consider pay increases separately in each of the several different village job categories, and village departments probably will be awarded separate rates, Larson said.

BUFFALO GROVE and Wheeling firemen Wednesday served as pallbearers and an honor guard at the funeral of Lt. Norman Schwinn, an 11-year member of the Buffalo Grove volunteer fire force who died Sunday. Schwinn was one of the department's first firemen. He was buried in St. Mary's Cemetery.

Lake County resident plans to run for trustee

John Marienthal, 951 Dunham Ln., Buffalo Grove, has taken out nominating petitions and apparently intends to run for village trustee in the April 15 election.

Marienthal, who lives in the Lake County section of the village, would make no comment when contacted Wednesday on his plans.

Marienthal has been an outspoken critic of the park district's plan to build a $100,000 community center complex along Dunham Lane. The park project also calls for relocating the adjacent former Levitt and Sons Inc. sales office for a museum.

Several Dunham Lane residents have blasted the park's plan, saying it will create traffic hazards.

In the April 15 balloting, Buffalo Grove voters will elect a new village president and three trustees.

Three other candidates also are in the race for trustee. Dorothy Berth, 304 Indian Hill Ln., announced Tuesday she will seek one of the posts. Also in the running are Donald Eannarino, 832 Boxwood Ln., and Robert Bogart, 930 Plum Grove Circle. All are first-time candidates for Buffalo Grove office.

Four candidates also are challenging Village Pres. Gary Armstrong. James Stumbaugh, 393 Raupp Blvd., incumbent Trustees Edward Osmon and Randall Rathjen along with ex-trustee Edward Fabish, are candidates for the office.

RTA encourages railroad to seek grant

C&NW drops request for fare hike

by STEVE FORSYTH

A virtual promise of money from the Regional Transportation Authority has convinced the Chicago and North Western Ry. to drop a request for a 7 per cent commuter-fare increase.

Larry S. Provo, C&NW president, said Wednesday, "The railroad wants to be responsive to an RTA invitation to seek a grant from the RTA as an alternative to pursuing a fare increase."

The railroad will notify the Illinois Commerce Commission to defer further action on the increase and ask the RTA board for $947,000 for operating subsidies in the first six months of 1975. James Macdonald, director of public relations for the railroad, said it expects to have a purchase-of-service agreement with the RTA by July.

The fare increase was to have taken effect Jan. 1 but was deferred four months by the ICC. During that time, considerable opposition developed. Village Atty. Jack Siegel of Arlington Heights challenged the hike, as did an attorney for the City of West Chicago. "I'm very pleased they've deferred their request," Siegel said. "I feel they weren't entitled to it."

STATE REP. CALVIN Skinner, R-Crystal Lake, who opposed rate increases on the C&NW and the Milwaukee Road, said the fares should be frozen until the RTA board could establish grants and operating procedures.

Skinner sent letters to all RTA board members asking them to oppose the rate hike at a Jan. 13 ICC hearing in Chicago.

Board members D. Daniel Baldino of Evanston and Nicholas Bosen of Chicago filed objections, indicating they would prefer to give the C&NW a grant.

Baldino said he represented all four suburban RTA board members, and Bosen said his views reflected the opinion of RTA chairman-elect Milton Pikarsky.

During questioning, Baldino said, "Given the validity of the financial information, I would have no difficulty approving a grant if it would prevent a fare increase."

Before that hearing the RTA board had been awarding only emergency grants for transit systems that were in serious financial difficulty. Four railroads already have been tapped to receive large grants, although the money will not be paid until complicated contracts are drafted.

MacDONALD SAID the C&NW request for RTA funds will be filed by Friday or by early next week. The original rate hike would have brought in about $1.9 million for the year, Macdonald said, so the request to the RTA board is half that — to cover half the year. He estimated a loss of $150,000 a month for each month the fare increase was not in effect. The railroad said the hike was to cover increased labor and fuel costs.

The railroads all stand to make more profit under the purchase-of-service contracts, which will include a "fair rate of return" on investments. The C&NW, the only profitable commuter operation, has been earning 2 to 4 per cent on its passenger system, and most officials indicate that is too low.

Baldino and others have said the rate of return will be significantly higher and will compare with other industries.

Pikarsky has pledged to stabilize commuter fares throughout the Chicago area, and has indicated it will mean lower fares for the more expensive services. Baldino said prevention of fare increases is the first step in the stabilization process.

RTA grant recipients are prohibited by contract from raising fares or reducing service. The Milwaukee Road, which will receive a $1.2-million grant, already has deferred action on its fare-increase request.

Stevenson High graduation requirements are revised

Graduation requirements were revised for students attending Stevenson High School in Prairie View by the High School Dist. 125 Board of Education.

Students will be required to take two years of math and 1½ years of science. Currently students must take one year of both subjects.

Students also will need 44 credits to graduate, but each course will represent one credit per semester. Previously, students needed 21 credits to graduate but courses carried one-quarter to one-half credit per semester or one-half to one credit per year.

Grade-point averages will be computed in the current manner, with only academic subjects figured into the average. Subjects such as physical education, music and art are not included.

Arne Carlsson, board member, suggested the board also consider requiring four years of English instead of the current three years.

BEGINNING NEXT semester, seven one-hour class periods will be scheduled rather than the current 15-minute class system. Under the present system, classes are composed of as many 15-minute continuous periods as needed to teach the subject. Chemistry labs might require six 15-minute periods for a 1½-hour session, while other courses might only require two periods, or a half-hour.

Students also will select courses starting next semester through a "college-type" registration system. When a course is filled, students will be placed on a waiting list or another class might be scheduled.

The board also authorized the administration and school attorney to start preparations to sell $850,000 in school building bonds for an addition to Stevenson.

Greatest Cub fan of 'em all? 'Uncle Charlie qualified

by ART MUGALIAN

The Chicago Cubs didn't know who Charles F. Kritsch was. But Kritsch knew the Cubs — better than Phil Wrigley or anyone else might have guessed.

The Mount Prospect resident was the greatest of Cub fans.

If there had been a Cub game scheduled the January day he was buried, Kritsch would have been in the grandstand instead.

That is the kind of fan he was.

When Kritsch died at the age of 86 in Northwest Community Hospital, his family fashioned a floral wreath in the form of a Cub emblem. It was a gesture of love — a family's love for a man and the man's affection for a team.

"At the funeral," said Ed Weight, Kritsch's grandson, "everybody who saw the wreath said, 'Yes, that's Uncle Charlie.' There was no Cub fan like him."

HE WAS BORN in Chicago Aug. 3, 1888, and he worked for years as a piano finisher. He and his family moved to Mount Prospect several decades ago. In retirement, Kritsch must have been like any avid baseball fan.

Still, at death, there was that wreath — a symbol of something larger than just a man's devotion to his favorite team.

Kritsch loved the Cubs.

"Oh, he screamed and yelled and he watched every game," said Weigt. "He tried not to miss an opening game. Anytime he could persuade his children or grandchildren to go to a game, he'd go.

"He tried to reach Leo Durocher by phone. He wrote letters to Whitey Lockman. He was always criticizing pitching changes. And he never stopped complaining about the Lou Brock trade."

KRITSCH LOVED baseball.

"He liked the White Sox, too," his grandson admitted. "He would follow them both — he'd be watching the Cubs on television and listening to the Sox on the radio. But the Cubs were his favorite, of course."

The Cubs' biggest fan had been disappointed lately — for the past 30 years, actually. But Kritsch always felt that he would see another World Series in Chicago.

"Grandpa was an eternal optimist," said Weigt. "He would always say that this was the year for the Cubs. He always said that they had the personnel."

The last time the Cubs won the pennant, Kritsch took his son, David, to a Series game. The year was 1945.

"I came home from work late one night," said David Kritsch. "I was spotting pins in a bowling alley then. I told Dad I wanted to go to the game the next day and he said, OK, let's go."

Kritsch and his son took a taxicab to Des Plaines, then a bus into the city. Then they waited 12 hours — all night — outside the ticket gate at Wrigley Field. It was not easy, but they saw a game that day.

HE HAD FAVORED players, too — players who could do no wrong. Andy Pafko was one, and lately, Ernie Banks was at the top of the list. But his all-time favorite was Gabby Hartnett.

Kritsch and Hartnett even met once, but because it took place in a speakeasy, Kritsch liked to keep the details a mystery.

"His favorite team was the one with Charlie Root, Hartnett, and Stan Hack — back in the 30s," said Kritsch's daughter, Myrtle Weight. "But every year was a new year for him. He was a cub fan all his life."

In 1886, the Cubs won the National League pennant. They were known as the White Stockings in those days. The team won 10 more championships during Kritsch's lifetime.

THROUGH THE good times and the bad times he was there, rooting his team to victory and suffering in defeat.

"At the funeral service, the minister told about the time Grandpa was too sick to go to church," said Weigt.

On that occasion, the Rev. Clifford Kaufman of St. Paul Lutheran Church in Mount Prospect visited Kritsch at home. It was a service that Kaufmann performed for many of his parishioners.

But Charlie Kritsch was different from any of the other parishioners, Weight said.

"Grandpa made the Rev. Kaufman give the communion between innings."

C&NW drops bid for 7% fare hike

Assurance of a subsidy from the Regional Transportation Authority has convinced the Chicago & North Western Ry. to drop a request for a 7 per cent commuter fare increase. Larry S. Provo, railroad president, said the North Western "wants to be responsive to an RTA invitation to seek a grant from the RTA as an alternative to pursuing a fare increase."

Schools comply with U.S. ruling

Local high school superintendents said their schools already are in compliance with a U.S. Supreme Court ruling assuring students facing suspension a hearing. The court, in a 5-4 decision handed down Wednesday, said students have a "property and liberty" interest in attending public schools, which places them under the protection of the 14th Amendment. Local superintendents noted that Illinois law already requires schools to notify parents of all suspensions and provide for a hearing with school officials.

Jenson may get U.S. drug post

Jerry N. Jenson of Elk Grove Village has been nominated by President Gerald Ford to serve as deputy administrator of the U.S. Justice Dept.'s Drug Enforcement Administration. Jenson's nomination must be confirmed by the U.S. Senate. He has been serving as acting deputy administrator of the Washington office for several weeks. For the past year, Jenson has headed the regional office of the Drug Enforcement Administration in Chicago. Before that, he was deputy regional director of the New York bureau and served as regional director of the New Orleans office.

Race track parking tax?

The Village of Arlington Heights is considering several new taxes, including a real estate transfer tax and a 10-cent parking tax aimed at Arlington Park Race Track patrons. Village officials were unable to estimate how much money might be produced by the parking tax. This is the first year the village is able to impose new taxes on the race track because of the expiration of the track's annexation agreement with the village. The village in November passed a 2 per cent hotel tax which affects patrons at the Arlington Park Hilton.

Solicitors arrested

For the second time in less than a year, peddlers who have ignored a "No solicitors allowed" sign at a Mount Prospect apartment building have been arrested on order of a tenant — Sgt. Gerald Glascock of Mount Prospect police. Charged this week for uninvited soliciting were Patricia A. Kristen, 17, of 1713 Pheasant Ln., Mount Prospect, and John E. Sobieszczyk, 18, of 361 Pleasant St., Hoffman Estates. Glascock said the pair was trying to sell photographs. Last June, a magazine salesman who knocked on Glascock's door was arrested.

Woman raped at knifepoint

A 24-year-old Des Plaines woman was raped at knifepoint early Wednesday in the basement of an apartment building on the 100 block of Dover Drive. Police said the incident occurred about 1 a.m. when the woman returned to her apartment from work. The woman told police the man, whom she described as young, fair-skinned and about 5 feet 9 inches tall, forced her to unlock the basement door to the building and then held a knife to her and raped her.

Firms face bid-rigging charges

Illinois Attorney General William J. Scott filed an antitrust suit Wednesday charging six Chicago-area highway-landscape mowing firms with bid rigging. Scott accused the six of sending representatives to a meeting each year between 1968 and 1972 to decide which company would submit the low bid for mowing work to be done for the state. The suit, filed in Circuit Court, asks a $50,000 fine for each offense and injunction to stop the alleged violations.

Rewards to stop tree vandals?

Village Mgr. Robert Eppley said he may ask for establishment of a reward fund to help catch vandals in automobiles who have destroyed 57 parkway trees in Mount Prospect in the last two months.

Rep. Duff named minority whip

State Rep. Brian B. Duff, R-Wilmette, was named Wednesday as one of two minority whips in the Illinois House of Representatives.

Duff is believed to be the first state representative from the North Shore 1st Legislative District to become a member of the House leadership, although former Sen. W. Russell Arrington of Evanston served three terms as president pro tempore of the state Senate.

Duff's 1st District extends from the North Shore through the northern half of Wheeling Township, including the villages of Wheeling and Buffalo Grove, and a small portion of Arlington Heights.

HIS APPOINTMENT was announced Wednesday by Republican Minority Leader James (Bud) Washburn of Morris shortly after newly elected House Speaker William Redmond, D-Bensenville, named his majority leadership team.

Redmond, as expected, appointed Rep. Gerald Shea, D-Chicago, as majority leader. Shea served as assistant minority leader under Rep. Clyde Choate, D-Anna, defeated by Redmond for the speakership, and as such has been the primary spokesman for Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley in the House.

Named as assistant majority leaders by Redmond were Rep. Corneal Davis of Chicago, the dean of the House who was first elected in 1940; Rep. Michael Madigan of Chicago; and Rep E. G. (Zeke) Giorgi of Rockford.

Appointed Democratic whips were Rep. Donald Brummet of Vandalia and Rep. Gerald Bradley of Bloomington, Gov. Daniel Walker's original choice for speaker of the House.

On the Republican side, Washburn named as assistant minority leaders, Rep. Celeste Stiehl of Alton, the first woman ever to serve in the House leadership of either party; Rep. Arthur Telcser of Chicago; and Rep. William Walsh of LaGrange Park, who served as majority leader in the 78th General Assembly under Speaker W. Robert Blair of Park Forest.

Sharing the duties of Republican whip with Duff will be Rep.Timothy Simms of Rockford.

Duff is beginning his third term as a state representative. In his second term he served as chairman of the House Judiciary Committee.

Movers, union resume negotiations

Negotiations resumed Wednesday between representatives of striking moving-van drivers from Teamster Local 705 and a negotiating team from the Movers Assn. of Greater Chicago.

The strike began last Friday.

Spokesmen from both groups said they did not know what was being discussed in the negotiation session that began at 1 p.m. and was still in progress late in the afternoon.

But, a meeting of the movers association membership was called for today, said John Westerberg, president of Nelson-Westerberg Moving and Storage, Elk Grove Village.

Picketers remained in front of major moving company "barns" that employ the 1,500 strikers.

The union at least reports was seeking a three-year contract that would increase the $6.14 per-hour base pay 75 cents initially and 60 cents in each of the following years.

The movers' association was offering 60 cents the first year and 50 cents in both the second and third year.

Also at issue was a guaranteed wage for 40 hours work each week which suburban union members say is wanted more by the union's city members. The guarantee, as requested, would cover 80 per cent of the permanent workers employed at each moving company.

Suburban drivers have experienced plenty of opportunity for work and seasonal overtime, union members said, but things are slower in the city.

Durable goods in steep decline

970,200 join ranks of unemployed

From Herald news services

The government reported Wednesday that a record 970,200 persons joined the rolls of unemployment insurance applicants in the week ended Jan. 11, signaling another sharp increase in the nation's overall unemployment rate.

The Labor Department said widespread layoffs in North Carolina, Michigan, California, Tennessee, Pennsylvania and many other states had added the nearly one million new applicants to the record 4.6 million persons already receiving unemployment benefits as of the week ended Jan. 4.

The trend indicated the nationwide unemployment rate for January would move well beyond December's figure of 7.1 per cent — an estimated 6.5 million persons.

The Labor Department report said the total number of new applicants during the week ended Jan. 11 was "a record high since benefits were first paid in 1937 . . .

"The largest rise was recorded in North Carolina with 50,000. Other states recording sizable increases included Michigan (40,000), California (29,400), Tennessee (21,500), Pennsylvania (15,300), Illinois (13,700) and Missouri (12,900)."

In other announcements Wednesday, orders of durable goods went into the steepest decline in 20 years and the government sought to borrow money.

The Treasury Department said it will go into open money markets over the next six months to borrow $28 billion to finance the growing red-ink government deficit.

The government borrowing — believed to be the most massive for a peacetime period — could squeeze the amount of available funds and force higher commercial interest rates at a time when the Federal Reserve Board is trying to drive them down to fight the recession.

The Commerce Department said orders for durable goods — such items as steel, heavy machinery, automobiles and major appliances — declined 11.1 per cent in December to $38.3 billion, $4.78 billion less than in November.

It was the sharpest fall since November, 1954, the fifth biggest on record and the fifth consecutive month of decline.

The government's survey of durable goods orders is closely watched by industry because it is a strong indicator of future economic conditions. When orders drop, producers of raw materials and manufacturers of finished products cut back production to match slowing demand. This means more layoffs.

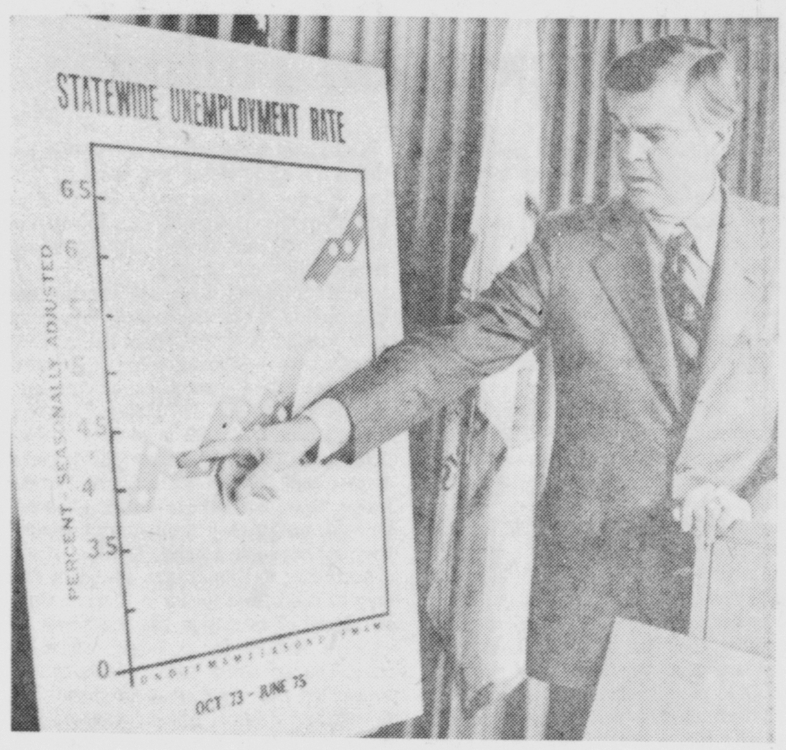
In other developments:

• Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey said the nation's economy cannot wait for income tax rebates proposed by President Ford and called for a quick reduction of withholding rates to beef up take-home pay. He urged a $20 billion tax cut within 30 days and said "if economic penicillin is needed to combat recession, then we should prescribe a dose large enough to help the patient."

• In Detroit, the Ford Motor Co. decided to offer its past and present employes an extra $100 if they buy a car or truck — a bonus the Internal Revenue Service says may be taxable. The bonus is on top of any $200 to $500 rebates the automaker is offering buyers of its small cars.

• The Penn Central Railroad said it will stop accepting shipments in about three weeks and will cease all operations by the end of February unless Congress grants additional emergency funds.

• Switzerland imposed a 40 per cent commission charge on all bank accounts held by nonresident foreigners in an attempt to brake the booming value of the Swiss franc.



GOV. DANIEL WALKER points to trend on statewide unemployment rate chart in explaining his $4.5 billion state construction program. He said the program could create 60,000 jobs. See story on page 8.

Rebellious House Dems oust Patman

REP. HENRY REUSS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rebellious Democrats Wednesday ousted a third veteran House committee chairman, Rep. Wright Patman of the Banking Committee, but voted to keep Rep. Wayne Hays as chairman of the Administration Committee.

Rep. Henry Reuss of Wisconsin, a 62-year-old, 11-term congressman, was given Patman's chairmanship of Banking — a post the 81-year-old dean of the House held for 12 of his 46 years in Congress. The vote in the Democratic party caucus was 152-117.

Hays, of Ohio, however, easily defeated his opponent, Rep. Frank Thompson of New Jersey, on a 161-111 vote.

Thompson had accused Hays of using the panel's authority over the size of committee budgets and members' allowances to build a personal power base.

The Democratic caucus will send its decisions, along with GOP committee assignments the Republicans approved Wednesday, to the full House for final action Thursday.

The caucus last week ousted Reps. W. R. Poage of Texas as chairman of the Agriculture Committee and F. Edward Hebert of Louisiana as head of Armed Services. It approved Reps. Thomas Foley of Washington to succeed Poage and Melvin Price of Illinois to replace Hebert.

It took two secret ballots to unseat Patman. In the first three-way vote, Reuss got 130 votes, Patman 90 and Rep. Robert Stephens of Georgia 58.

A Reuss-Patman runoff was required because no one got a majority of votes cast the first time around.

Patman, of Texas, long criticized the Federal Reserve System for failing to crack down on the banks that it supervises for charging high interest rates, said the big banks campaigned against him and actively supported Reuss.

Reuss rejected this accusation. "I got no support, and I'm glad I didn't, from any of the financial interests," he said, and added that this first effort as chairman will be "to legislate lower interest rates around the country."

Thompson got the nomination last week for Hays' chairmanship, but then was rejected by the caucus. Hays then got the nomination, which he claimed had been denied him earlier because it was voted on by secret ballot.

Helms testifies on CIA spy issue

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former CIA Director Richard Helms "intimated" that any domestic spying by the agency must have taken place without his knowledge, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee said Wednesday.

Sen. Gale McGee, D-Wyo., told reporters Helms had repeated his earlier denial that the CIA engaged in direct surveillance of U. S. citizens in the United States.

Helms, now U. S. ambassador to Iran, testified Wednesday in a closed session of the committee. Emerging before the meeting ended, McGee said, "He intimated that this may have occurred without his knowledge."

McGee added: "He said he never authorized any civilian surveillance. He said there was no domestic surveillance, per se, even at the time of growing concern about U. S. dissidents in the 1960s and 70s."

When the committee concluded, acting Chairman John Sparkman, D-Ala., told reporters Helms had answered questions "fully and frankly." Sparkman, however, shed no light on whether Helms had misled — or lied to — the committee in 1973 when he denied CIA domestic intelligence activities.

In related developments:

— Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania announced he would name Sens. John Tower of Texas, Howard Baker of Tennessee, Charles McC. Mathias of Maryland, Richard Schweiker of Pennsylvania and Barry Goldwater of Arizona to the Senate select investigating committee on the CIA which the Senate is expected to create Monday.

— Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Armed Services Committee which has oversight responsibilities for the CIA, said that as a result of his own inquiry he believes there have been "transgressions" of the agency's charter but not of a massive nature nor necessarily illegal.

Elsewhere in Washington — in the FBI case — President Ford reportedly has been assured the agency keeps personal files on congressmen only for use in criminal investigations and in checking them for job appointments.

Secretary Ron Nessen said: "The Presidnt has been assured by the FBI and has no reason to doubt that any information on congressmen in its files is used only in criminal investigations and in suitability checks on prospective employes to the executive branch, and that this information whatever it is, is never used to influence the judgment or action of any member of Congress or anybody else."

Meantime, FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley told UPI that he knows of no past misuse of any information about members of Congress, and said he will condone no such practice.

South Bend bandits vanish with hostage

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (UPI) — Two gunmen vanished with a 17-year-old girl prisoner Wednesday after freeing five other hostages in a deal with police for two getaway vehicles and a promise that they would not be pursued.

The bandits were trapped by police while robbing a clothing store Tuesday night. The men originally took six persons hostages in the store, but released two of them later Tuesday.

Police obtained a search warrant and converged on an apartment in South Bend Wednesday afternoon. However, a massive search failed to produce any suspects. Police believe the kidnapers are still in the city, but have no firm proof.

Convoy attempting to reach Phnom Penh under fire

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — A convoy of ships ran a gauntlet of heavy rebel fire up the Mekong River Wednesday with life-saving ammunition and fuel for the besieged Cambodian capital.

The 20-ship convoy steamed from the South Vietnamse frontier to within 17 miles of the capital by the latest report in a last-ditch attempt to use the only route not completely cut by the Communist-led rebels to get supplies to Phnom Penh.

U.S. officials said that if the convoy fails to make it "there is no other choice" than a Berlin-style airlift to save the city.

The convoy sailed straight past the beleagured river port city of Neak Luong, 35 miles southeast of the capital, to make it to Phnom Penh as swiftly as possible, military sources said.

The last stretch of trip is described as "the toughest," with the rebels in control of points where the Mekong narrows just before reaching Phnom Penh.

The stepped up fighting in Indochina was described by ranking officials in Thailand as "rather critical" and may delay withdrawal of some of the 25,000 American troops. In a broadcast over Radio Hanoi and monitored in Saigon, President Ford was accused of trying to expand the war with his announcement that he will seek another $300 million to aid President Nguyen van Thieu's government.

The broadcast said he is the fifth American president trying to deceive the American public about "real developments" in South Vietnam.

South Vietnamese warplanes blitzed the way for the 20-ship convoy to make it into Cambodia from South Vietnam in the most determined effort to get U.S.-supplied ammunition and oil to Phnom Penh since the river was cut by Communist-led rebels 25 days ago.

Ford draws battle lines to push his programs

President Ford drew up battle lines with Congress on his energy and recession programs Wednesday night, declaring in ringing terms he will use his executive authority to "force" swift action from the lawmakers. His voice rising and fists clenched, Ford told cheering business leaders he would begin the pressure on Congress Thursday by signing a proclamation that will put part of his program into effect.

Referring to congressional moves to temporarily block the increase in the import excise tax, Ford said: "I can imagine nothing more disappointing to the American people than to have the Congress deprive the president of the United States of a capability to force action in economy and energy — as some members of Congress are apparently willing to do."

Anti-abortionists rally in Washington

Anti-abortionists rallied in Washington on the icy steps of the Capitol Wednesday and urged Congress to establish a constitutional amendment banning abortion. The crowd carried roses and placards saying "Kill inflation, not babies" and "it's not nice to fool with mother nature." Sen. James L. Buckley, R-N.Y., announced he would introduce a constitutional amendment banning abortion in the Senate Thursday.

Influenza epidemic in Florida

An influenza epidemic in three Florida counties has been blamed for at least 29 deaths, health authorities said. The outbreak has affected one of every 10 persons in Pinellas County, health department director Dr. George Dame said, and 17 deaths have been linked to the flu, mostly persons suffering from heart ailments. The other counties involved are Hillsborough and Manatee.

An earth resources satellite, hailed as the prototype of the most useful spacecraft yet devised, was launched from Vandenberg AFB, Calif. Wednesday to join a sister ship scanning every portion of the globe with cameras and sensors. The 1,165-pound LANDSAT 2, was lifted on a Delta rocket on schedule at 9:56 a.m. into a 570-mile high orbit to report on the world's environment and its resources from agriculture to minerals and marine life.

British break contacts with IRA

Fire in Philippines kills 45

The worst fire in the Philippines since World War II swept through a five-story building in suburban Manila Wednesday killing at least 45 persons, most of them women working in an American-owned wig factory, police said. Eighty-three others were reported injured in the blaze at the Victura building in Marikina, about 10 miles east of Manila.

Meanwhile, President Ferdinand E. Marcos pledged Wednesday to return the country to parliamentary government immediately if the Filipino people vote "no" in next month's national plebiscite on his martial law regime.

Cagney says unauthorized biography is 'bunk'

• Retired film star James Cagney says an unauthorized biography of his life is "bunk" — but the book apparently will be published anyway. Schools 'already comply' with suspension ruling

Students facing suspension from school have a constitutional right to a hearing with school administrators, the U.S. Supreme Court said Wednesday, in a 5-to-4 decision.

Local high school superintendents, reacting to the decision, said their schools already comply with the ruling. Illinois law requires schools to notify parents of all suspensions and provide for a hearing with school officials.

The court's decision is based on the 14th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution which says no state can deprive a person of "life, liberty or property without due process of law."

JUSTICE BYRON R. WHITE said the court found that students have a "property and liberty" interest in attending public schools which places them under the protection of the 14th Amendment. In its ruling, the court affirmed the decision of a lower court which required a Columbus, Ohio public school system to advise a student why he was being suspended and offer him a hearing with school officials.

"We've become accustomed that questions like this are going to the highest court," said Supt. Edward Gilbert of High School Dist. 214.

Gilbert said when a Dist. 214 student is suspended a letter is sent immediately to parents informing them of the reasons for the suspension and their right to a hearing with the district hearing officer. The officer makes a written report of the hearing and submits it to the board of education, which can reverse the decision.

But Gilbert questioned whether the court ruling means schools must provide the hearing before the suspension takes effect. In Dist. 214 the hearing comes after the suspension and pre-suspension hearings are not required by state law.

IN HIGH SCHOOL Dist. 211, students are given a chance to respond to charges against them in a conference with the school principal or assistants, said Supt. Richard Kolze. Parents also are notified of the suspension immediately and in some cases the district requires them to come to the school for a conference.

Parents in Dist. 211 can appeal the suspension to the superintendent and the board of education and may be represented by an attorney.

Kolze said he could see no conflict between the court ruling and Dist. 211 policy. "I think what we are trying to do as school people is assure due process of students and that is what the courts are trying to do too," he said.

In High School Dist. 125 parents are informed of a suspension and their right to a hearing in a registered letter. They may request a hearing before the board of education at the board's next meeting.

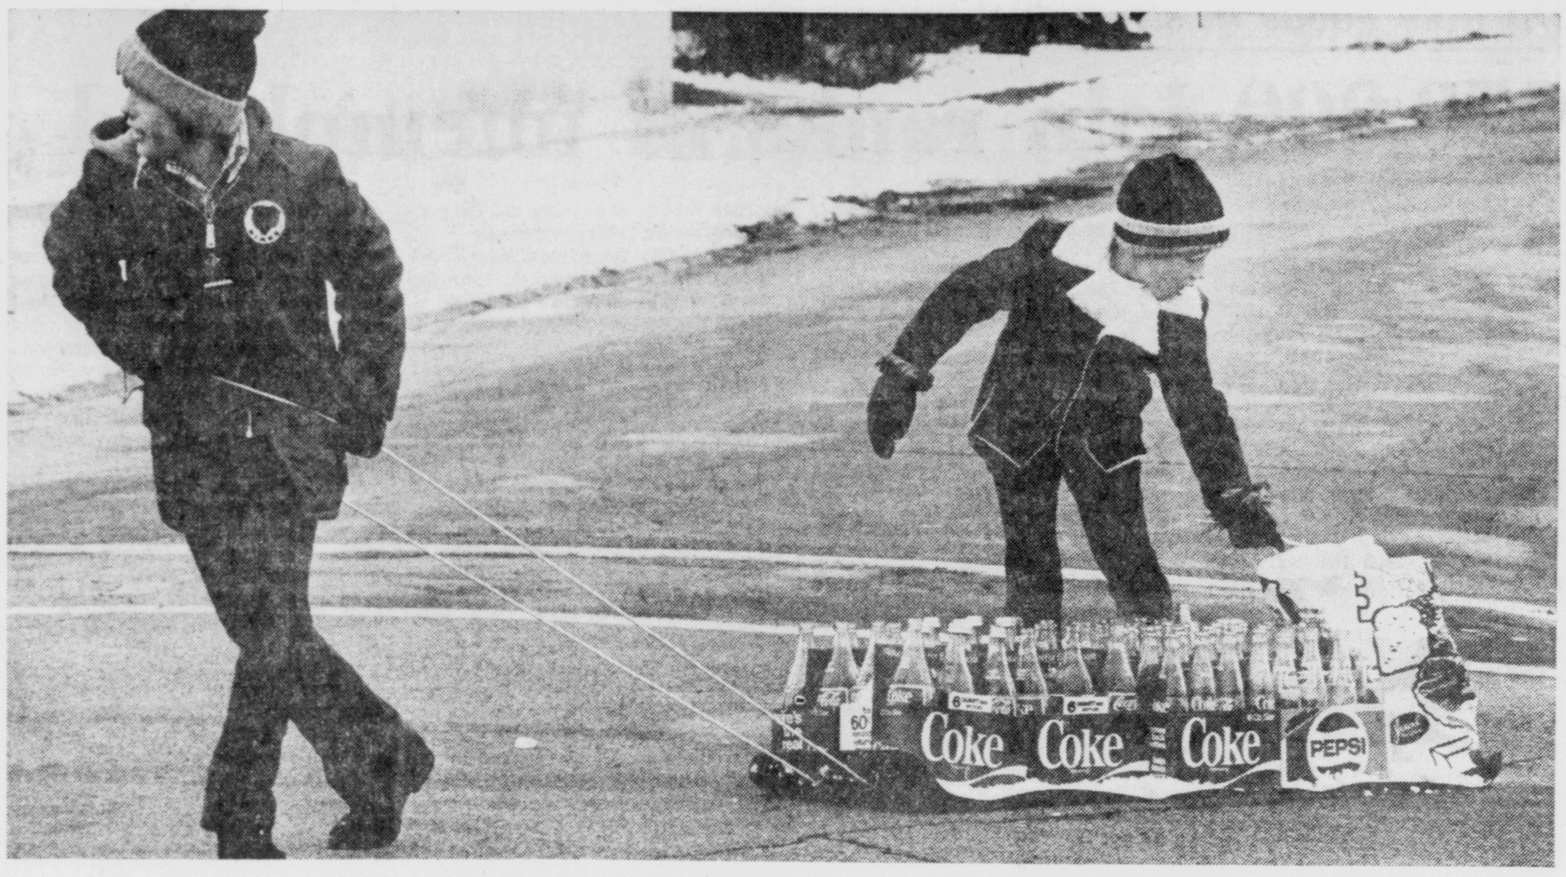
THE PRACTICE in Maine Township High School Dist. 207 is to hold a suspended student in school until his parents arrive, said Supt. Richard Short. "In essence, they can have a hearing there," he said, and if they want further review they can schedule a public hearing.

According to Illinois law, a student can only be suspended for up to 10 days. Only the board of education has the power to expel a student for a longer period of time. The law states that students can be suspended for "gross disobedience or misconduct." Local schools suspend students for acts of disobedience which include smoking outside the school smoking area, excessive absence from school, insubordination, fighting, and possession or use of drugs.

Justice White said the court's ruling means a hearing can take place after the suspension is in effect only when the misconduct posed "a continuing danger to persons or property or an ongoing threat of disrupting the academic process." If there is no such danger or threat of disruption, the hearing must be held before the student is suspended.

The Children's Defense Fund, Cambridge, Mass., which filed briefs in the case on behalf of students, said the decision should cut down on the number of suspensions for minor infractions of school rules. The fund's attorney, Sandra Levinson said, "The most important fact by far is that relatively few suspensions come for acts that are violent. Common causes are merely tardiness, walking in the halls or smoking and there is no need to suspend the student."

Justice Lewis F. Powell Jr., a former school board member, was one of the four judges who dissented. "The decision unnecessarily opens avenues for judicial intervention in the operation of our public schools that may affect adversely the quality of education," he said.



A penny saved . . . Ken Niebuhr 12, and Matt O'Mara, 9, beat the recession in their own way.

Village 'blocking approval' of Swan Lake

Project owners may sue Wheeling

by JOE FRANZ

Owners of the proposed Swan Lake development site have charged Wheeling officials with unjustly delaying construction plans and said they will file a lawsuit unless the project is approved Monday night.

Leo McLennon, an attorney for the present property owners, Wednesday said his clients have been unable to complete the sale of the property to the Swan Lake developer because the village has refused to act on the project.

"If they (the village) don't act on this development Monday night we will have no choice but to take them to court," McLennon said.

He said a 624-unit apartment project was approved in February 1971 on the Swan Lake site. He said village officials have refused to act on the Swan Lake prorect despite the approval of a multiple-family project by a previous village board.

VILLAGE MGR. George Passolt said action on the project has been delayed because of disagreements about density and flood-control measures. "I think it's a case of the village and the developer not being able to agree on the plan," he said.

"I don't think the village has been holding them up. They're just as responsible as the village for the delays on this project."

Ralph Stoetzel Inc., the Swan Lake developer, owns 20 acres and has an option to buy another 20 acres on the east side of Wheeling Road, south of Palatine Road, and has proposed building 540 apartments. The sales contract for the additional land, however, will be executed only if the project is approved by the village.

McLennon said his clients have a "vested right" to sell the property for development under the present zoning and charged that the village has denied them that right by not acting on the builder's request.

"We feel the village has abused its power and has wrongfully refused to let the developer go ahead with its plans," McLennon said. "As a result my clients have lost hundreds of thousands of dollars in interest and could lose millions of dollars because of increased construction costs."

McLENNON SAID the village's refusal to act on the project is a violation of his clients' civil and contractual rights. Unless the village approves the project, he said, a suit will be filed in U.S. District Court naming the village board and members of the plan commission as defendants.

The attorney said the suit will seek damages as well as an injunction to require the village to allow construction of the development. McLennon said he is not sure how much money his clients will seek in damages.

"We haven't figured that out, but the amount we will ask the village officials to pay will be enough to cover all the money we have lost as a result of their refusal to act on the development."

The Swan Lake project was proposed in July 1973, but the plan commission refused to review it then because the zoning had expired. Review of the project was delayed until the village reenacted the zoning.

LAST JULY PLAN commission members told the developer the project faced almost certain rejection unless the density is lowered. As a result, the developer presented a revised plan with 84 fewer units.

In September, however, the plan commission reached an impasse on the development and sent it to the village board with no recommendation. Last month the village board referred the development back to the plan commission for further study and two weeks ago it was rejected 5 to 2 by commission members.

The village board was scheduled to consider the project last Monday, but it was deferred until next week because Village Pres. Ted C. Scanlon and Trustee John Koeppen were absent.

Lawrence Freedman, the attorney representing Ralph Stoetzel Inc., said although legal action against the village is a possiblity if the project is rejected, his clients have no plans for that at present.

"Quite honestly I have not even discussed this possibility with my client," Freedman said. "We'll wait and see what happens Monday night before we make any decision."

Of the past delays, Freedman said, "Clearly they have cost us a lot of money, but I don't want to cast the blame on the village or anyone else."

Golf course won't be hurt by Phoenix decision: mayor

Village Pres. Gary Armstrong said Wednesday that Phoenix Construction Co.'s decision not to build 849 townhouse units in Buffalo Grove will not affect village operation of the Buffalo Grove Golf Course.

The developer was to buy 60 acres around the course as part of an agreement with owner Harold Friedman who turned the course over to the village with a $1.1 million option to buy in return for rezoning of the property.

Phoenix official Bernard Wolf said he does plan to develop the property.

"I can only assume that it has to do with financing and the state of the economy," Armstrong said, adding that Wolf has offered no explanation of why development plans have been put off. Wolf could not be reached for comment.

LAST JULY, officials approved rezoning of the land for the multi-family housing and a few months later agreed to let the company rent one-third or 382 of the units if economic conditions made it impossible to sell them.

At that time however, the village told Phoenix it would have to prove the economic hardship before being allowed to rent any of the units.

Agreements between the village, Phoenix and Friedman were the center of debate among village board members and residents for more than two years.

Some trustees were opposed to allowing rental units in the development, but Phoenix attorneys told the board last October the company feared it might be unable to get financing otherwise.

Residents raised objections to the development, saying it would cause a large population increase, that school and park donations were inadequate and that the land should be left as open space.

THE PHOENIX project has been before the village board since late 1972 and was even turned down by the board in September 1973 because officials were unhappy with the plans.

Armstrong said in light of the Phoenix withdrawal, the land will remain undeveloped "for the time being," but added the village will consider dealing with another developer pending approval if changes in agreements require village board action.

Medicare coverage limits

I have Medicare medical insurance, and I'm confused about what kinds of drugs it will pay for. A few months ago, my doctor gave me an injection that he said Medicare would pay for. When I went back to him for a flu shot, he said Medicare wouldn't pay for it. How come Medicare pays for the one and not the other?

Medical insurance will help pay for drugs if they cannot be self-administered and if their use is directly related to treatment for an illness or injury. Shots to prevent illness, such as flu shots, are not covered. Also, drugs you buy yourself, with or without a doctor's prescription, are not covered.

That ringing in your ears may be village hall chimes!

The Wheeling Beautification Committee with the permission of the Bicentennial Commission has launched a campaign to raise money to purchase chimes for the village hall.

The Bicentennial project was proposed several months ago by Esther Davis, chairman of the beautification committee. The electronic chimes would be installed in the municipal building, 255 W. Dundee Rd., and would be played through four horns on the roof.

The beautification committee is selling "Spirit of '76" lapel pins to supplement the carillon fund-raising campaign. The pins are $1 and are available at the village hall or from members of the beautification committee.

Mrs. Davis said the fund-raising campaign is seeking help from individuals, churches, clubs, businesses and civic organizations.

The commission has suggested a plaque be placed in the village hall listing the names of all donors who give $100 or more to the carillon fund. The donors, if they wish, would be able to make their contributions in memory of a person whose name also would be noted on the plaque.

The chimes would cost more than $8,000 installed and could be used to mark time or play elaborate concerts on Sunday afternoons. The carillon would be able to play patriotic, ethnic, seasonal, popular, religious, classical and semi-classical music. Tapes for the carillon would be $60 each.

Mrs. Davis said since there are few homes near the village hall, it is doubtful the chimes would become bothersome to residents.

The carillon is the first of a series of projects planned to commemorate the nation's 200th birthday.

Des Plaines woman raped at knifepoint

A 24-year-old Des Plaines woman was raped at knifepoint early Wednesday in the basement of an apartment building on the 100 block of Dover Drive.

Police said the incident occurred at about 1 a.m. when the woman returned to her apartment from work. The woman told police the man, whom she described as young, fair-skinned and about 5 feet 9 inches tall, forced her to unlock the basement door to the building and then held a knife to her and raped her.

Police said the man fled the scene and they have no other clues. The woman called police after the man left and was taken to Holy Family Hospital for treatment.

Parks to air gripes on shopping center

Buffalo Grove park officials will discuss their objections tonight to a proposed shopping center they say might cause flooding problems in an adjacent park site.

Park board representatives met last week with plan commissioners and William Simpson, who hopes to develop the property, to voice their concern.

At a meeting at 8 p.m. in the park administration center, 150 Raupp Blvd., park officials also will discuss committee reports on the Buffalo Grove Jaycees' proposal to purchase playground and recreation equipment for Willow Stream Park.

Crime compensation

What are the major changes in the Illinois Crime Victims Compensation Act?

Any person related to the victim of a crime of violence, even tough he was not dependent on the victim for his support, is now eligible for reimbursement of funeral and medical expenses which he paid for the victim. Another amendment authorizes the filing of claims for as little as $200.

Down with memos —let's have more personal contact

Education today

by Wandalyn Rice

As a freshman in college, I took a course in World Politics which included participation in a computerized simulation game designed to duplicate the way nations deal with each other.

In the game, I was the foreign minister of Upper Algo, a mythical country that several games earlier had been divided by the major powers after a war. Under the terms of the game, I was allowed to talk to my chief of state for only a short period of time each "year" (which was an hour) and once every few "years" I went to a United Nations meeting where I met face-to-face with the other foreign ministers.

Except for these brief encounters, all communication among nations and between the heads of state and their foreign ministers had to be in the form of written memos. The memos could be sent publicly, meaning they would appear in the newspaper that came out regularly, or they could be marked "secret." A certain number of the "secret" memos were leaked to the press and appeared in the newspaper anyway.

THERE ARE several things that were impressed on me as I played that game. For one thing I was amazed at how realistic it was — and at how involved we all became, even though most of us went into the project as a lark. The second thing I remember is how easy it was to fall into the habit of marking all cables "secret" even if they contained no sensitive information. I remember that when I read about the problem of "over-classification" of documents in our government.

The third thing that seems to me important about my experience is the one I want to talk about directly in this column. I very quickly realized the problems inherent in communicating in writing and the amount to which we rely on the face-to-face responses of other people to judge their motives. It made me believe in summitry in world politics and, on a smaller scale, it made me the archenemy of creeping memoism in all beauracracies.

That lesson was brought back to me last week as I sat at a meeting of the joint communications committee set up by the Harper Board of Trustees. The committee, made up of board members, faculty, staff and administration, was designed to "improve communications" at the college.

Last week, at their second meeting, the group was laboring, unsuccessfully, over a written statement of purpose. There was quibbling about the exact wording of certain phrases and about whether a certain statement, if included, would cause problems later.

THE DISCUSSION about the statement of purpose seemed, at times, to be hindering the purpose of the committee — and that is to improve communications. It occurred to me that because of the passion, common to many bureaucracies and not just to Harper, to reduce everything to writing, communication is often thwarted.

The problem is that while putting things in writing is often necessary, it is easy for people to forget that sometimes it isn't necessary. Governmental officials, businessmen and others who work with people day to day often forget that, and the result is a barrage of uninformative memos that are misunderstood by the recipients.

In the case of the Harper communications committee, for example, the problem is that the faculty does not trust the board and the distrust runs the other way, too. Reducing the format for communications to writing just aggravates the distrust on both sides — and Eliminates the much more sensible approach of having the members of the committee simply size each other up and decide whether to trust each other.

As I discovered all too quickly during the simulation game years ago, communicating in writing has its limits. The problem of a bureaucracy is not to put things in writing, but to keep face-to-face communications operating.

Against the likes of Daley, Walker

'Country lawyer' Redmond says he'll hold own

by ROBERT KIECKHEFER

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UPI) — Illinois House Speaker William Redmond — the man who is going to have to deal one-on-one with the likes of Richard Daley and Daniel Walker — looks like a leprechaun, speaks almost inaudibly and considers himself a "little country lawyer."

He knows he was nobody's first choice for the powerful post he won Tuesday. He's surprised he won and says, "Quite frankly, I never thought I'd be a member of the General Assembly."

Now that he's speaker, he says, he has no further ambitions. "I'm not going to run for governor. I'm not going to run for president."

An editorial, Page 12.

HE SAYS he's only been in Chicago Mayor Richard Daley's office once and then he "felt a little like a relief pitcher coming into a ball game. It's a long walk from the door to that big desk."

After serving eight full terms in the House, he still had to be shown where the press room is.

"I'm just going to do the best I can," he said when he got there.

Modesty aside, though, Redmond says he thinks he can hold his own with the governor, the mayor of Chicago and the rest of the state's powerbrokers.

"I'm not the weakest guy in the world, you know," he said.

THAT SENTENCE cut through a lot of the imagery he projected before and after it.

He is, after all, the first candidate to openly challenge then frontrunner Clyde Choate of Anna. He announced his candidacy months before any other opposition solidified, then waited patiently through the 38 ballots in which Daley supported Choate. When he was tabbed the compromise candidate, he sat placidly through another 55 roll calls and some tough negotiations until he got the needed 89 votes.

He also is Democratic county chairman in Du Page County — a county Republicans called their own for more than a century but that, under Redmond's chairmanship, has become a swing area.

One of his first statements as speaker indicated Redmond intends to maintain his independence, despite all the claims being made on him by those who helped him get elected.

REDMOND FREELY admitted he will consult Daley before naming his leadership team.

"As a practical proposition, Cook County put on 42 votes for him and I'd surely be subject to some criticism if I forgot that," he said.

"Naturally, you don't forget to dance with the guy who brung you.",

But, he said, that doesn't mean Daley will dictate to him, 42 votes or no 42 votes.

To bolster economy, provide jobs

$4.1 billion state building plan asked

Gov. Daniel Walker took his first step toward plans to pump up the sagging economy and provide jobs for the unemployed by asking the Illinois General Assembly Wednesday to approve a $4.1 billion state building program.

The plan would call for starting hundreds of construction projects in Illinois in the next two years, including road widening and resurfacing, renovation of Amtrak and commuter railroad stations, three new state parks, insulation of state office buildings, additional airport and state school construction and other ideas.

The building, said Walker, would be done by private firms which bid on each construction job and hire workers to perform the tasks. He said many of the projects are in the planning stages but will be completed more rapidly under the accelerated building plan.

Walker said he will call a special legislative session, probably in February, so the lawmakers can consider the plan and vote on a $1.963 billion bond issue. The legislators already have authorized the issuance of $2.2 billion worth of bonds to pay for construction projects that would be started under Walker's plan.

'Finest school board ever'

Mayor Richard J. Daley Wednesday gave a vote of confidence to the much-maligned Chicago Board of Education and thanked board members "for their contribution to the school children of Chicago."

Daley met privately for two hours with the board and said afterwards he just wanted to reassure them of his support. "In my opinion," he said, "We've got the finest board members we have ever had in the history of Chicago."

Despite Daley's statements, he left the matter of retention of Supt. James Redmond up in the air. Daley said Redmond "has done a fairly decent job," but declined to say whether he favors reviewing the contract of the controversial superintendent, whose four-year term expires this year.

More workers laid off

Layoffs and cutbacks continue to make news as two Chicago-area companies Wednesday announced plans to save money at the expense of their workers.

Rockwell International Corp., said it is shutting down operations of its Admiral Group every other Friday until early March because of "softness" in the appliance market.

The announcement affects 1,000 salaried employes and 3,600 hourly workers at Admiral facilities in Chicago, Harvard McHenry, Bloomington and Galesburg in Illinois and Shelbyville, Ind.

Also, Playskool Inc., announced it will close its Hampshire, Ill. plant, knocking 230 persons out of their jobs. The company makes Lincoln Logs.

Caused fatal gas blast

A man attempting to commit suicide in his Downers Grove apartment last Nov. 5 was charged responsible for a resulting gas explosion that killed three persons and injured 10 others, according to a report by the DuPage County Coroner's office.

A coroner's jury determined that Richard Nickels died of smoke inhalation caused by an explosion when he turned on the gas in his kitchen. But before he inhaled a fatal amount, the jury said, something ignited the gas and it was the explosion that killed him.

Conservationists to question Army lock, dam project

by LEA TONKIN

Conservationists are expected to participate in a U.S. Army Corps of Engineers public hearing tonight in Joliet. The corps set the hearing to discuss the proposed construction of supplemental locks at Lockport and other locations along the Illinois River.

Environmental organizations such as the Audubon Council of Illinois, the Northwest Suburban Prairie Woods Audubon Society and Sierra Club plan to question the entire Illinois lock and dam project planned by the corps, said Ann Fisher, Arlington Heights. She will represent the Illinois Audubon Council at the 7 p.m. hearing at Joliet Township High School west campus.

"We don't think the corps is playing fair," Mrs. Fisher said. "They should address the whole problem of replacing all the locks and dams at a greater depth," she said. Mrs. Fisher said Congress authorized channelization along the Mississippi and Illinois rivers to a depth of nine feet. Yet the corps is attempting to gain, one step at a time, a 12-foot channel along the waterways, she said. Tonight's hearing specifically covers construction of supplemental locks at Lockport and nearby Brandon Road, Dresden Island, Marseilles, Starved Rock, Peoria and LaGrange. The initial cost is set at $500,000, a figure that environmentalists criticize as unrealistically low.

Mrs. Fisher said that a temporary injunction barring the corps' construction plans at Lock and Dam 26 near Alton followed legal action by conservation groups and the railroad industry. The project is viewed as a disaster because of the environmental damage that would occur along Illinois waterways. The high cost of construction and the increased subsidies for the barge industry that will hurt railroad freight business will cause economic problems, she said.

Nuclear plants on agenda

A subcommittee of the Atomic Energy Commission's Advisory Committee on Reactor Safeguards will meet today in Chicago. The group will consider applications from Commonwealth Edison Co. to build Byron and Braidwood nuclear power plants. The proposed Byron site is located in Ogle County near Byron and the Braidwood station would be located in Will County. The public meeting will begin at 9 a.m. at the O'Hare Hilton Hotel at O'Hare Airport.

Public projects queried

Stepped up highway and waterway construction proposed by Gov. Daniel Walker is questioned by area conservationists. "We wholeheartedly support the governor's proposals to assist local governments in funding construction of sewage treatment plants," said Ann Fisher, Arlington Heights, conservation chairman of the Great Lakes Chapter of the Sierra Club. "But we feel that any program designed to speed up the construction of highways and reservoirs is not in the best interests of the people of Illinois."

Recent studies conducted at the University of Illinois, Urbana, indicate that the public works projects do little to provide employment opportunities to people who really need them, she said. Mrs. Fisher suggests public transportation projects in urban areas as alternatives to construction projects in prime agricultural areas.

Land reclamation a 'must'

Illinois must reclaim strip-mined, eroded and low-fertility soil areas so they may become productive, a recent report of the Illinois Natural History Survey indicated. The report, calling for reclamation of lands for agriculture, wildlife management and outdoor recreation was presented to the Illinois Board of Natural Resources and Conservation by survey chief George Sprugel. He said survey scientists seeking methods of speeding the recovery process favor a combination of productive grasses, shrubs, and trees that will support a variety of game and non-game life.

Taking daily vitamin good idea for health

The doctor says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

I have a heart condition and use Digoxin daily and quinidine. The quinidine price is very high, having increased 50 per cent in a few months.

Your column indicates potassium helps prevent heart irregularities,which, if I understand correctly, is also the purpose of quinidine.

My question is, can potassium be used as a substitute for the quinidine? If yes, would the cost be cheaper?

The potassium will help prevent heart irregularities if a person is low on potassium. It is sometimes prescribed when a person is taking digitalis medicines such as Digoxin and also for people taking diuretics to eliminate excess salt and fluid, or in the treatment of high blood pressure.

When the potassium level is normal, taking excess potassium will do nothing to prevent heart irregularities. By contrast, quinidine has a direct drug-like effect on the heart muscle fibers and changes their irritability in such a manner that irregular contractions or beats are less likely to occur. So while both are useful in specific cases of irregularity of the heart, they do not have the same actions and cannot be substituted at will, one for the other. I wish it were so, then I could simply advise patients to use more orange juice and fruits rather than taking quinidine and similar medicines when needed.

I would like to ask you a question. I am a lactovegetarian, using milk (low-fat), and lots of cheese, no meat or fish at all. I read an article by another doctor, which said that one important amino acid is missing, that can only be found in meat.

I am 54 and in excellent health, having started on this deal 24 years ago. I take a daily vitamin tablet and 800 units of vitamin E every day. What do I lack that I could get from meat and what should I take to get the missing amino acid?

The protein in milk does contain all the essential amino acids — those that the body cannot manufacture from other amino acids. That, plus its calcium content, is why milk is such good food for growing bodies. I would think that you really have no problem as far as amino acids, protein or calcium intake.

Vegetarians as a group tend to live longer than their meat-eating contemporaries. Many of them tend to weigh less — eliminating or decreasing the problems of diseases associated with obesity, such as heart disease.

I am not strong on recommending all varieties of cheese in the diet because processed cheese may have 80 per cent of its calories as fat and half of that is saturated fat believed to contribute to heart and vascular disease. For this reason I usually recommend low-fat or uncreamed cottage cheese which is an excellent source of both protein and calcium without adding fat to the diet.

I don't think it is a bad idea to take one simple daily all-purpose vitamin tablet. Many people do not have adequate diets and such a practice may actually help in these situations. Vegetarians usually get all the vitamins they need because vegetables, fruits and cereals are major sources of vitamins. Most meat is actually poor in many of the needed vitamins. So you are not losing much there. The main contribution of most cuts of meat to the diet is really in helping to provide the daily intake of protein.

Who am I? Can't find my ID, driver's license or credit cards!!

Herald opinion

ID card plan good first step

The complexities of modern shopping have apparently sabotaged partially a well-intentioned county plan to assure citizens of proper identification when paying by check for purchases.

Last year, County Clerk Stanley T. Kusper, in a deluge of publicity which preceded his election, unveiled a $3 ID card which, he declared, would make it easy for persons without proper identification to cash checks.

But according to Gloria Weber of Palatine, one of the first purchasers of the card, store clerks have told her that the card alone simply isn't proper enough identification if she offers them a personal check.

Kusper's response is that the card isn't seen as frequently as it should be in the suburbs, and he contends that major Chicago merchants accept the card without question.

Perhaps so. But what Kusper should do, in order to assure acceptance of the ID card in the suburbs, is to conduct a county-wide campaign to inform all merchants of the card's purpose.

There is a need for Kusper's card, for, as any shopper knows, "proper identification" frequently means a driver's license and a credit card. To a person who has moved to Illinois from another state, or to a senior citizen who lacks a driver's license, shopping can become a nuisance, cash-and-carry affair.

Merchants have faced more and more rubber checks in recent years, and their demand for proper and full identification is reasonable — but that need produces a challenge for government to provide us with that kind of reliable identification.

A campaign by Kusper would help increase the value of the ID card, as would a state ID card and placing a driver's photo on a driver's license, a plan under consideration by Sec. of State Michael Howlett; he'll submit his plan to the legislature this year. It's a plan to aid the public, and it deserves support.

Trim U.S. limousines

In the spirit of President Ford's proposed freeze on new government spending, we can think of several items in the federal budget that are needless, personal luxuries that should be immediately eliminated.

For example, chauffered limousines.

There are 800 federal officials in Washington who currently ride in regularly assigned luxury cars, according to the Christian Science Monitor, and Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., wants to cut that number down to 25 cars.

In fact, he's proposing a bill which would strengthen existing but widely ignored regulations forbidding excessive use of limousines. His proposal has already gained substantial Senate support.

The savings to the U.S. taxpayer would be, of course, mammoth. It's estimated that about $13 million in salaries would be saved, and the amount of gasoline conserved in a year would help many less handsomely paid federal workers drive to work every day.

There's simply no reasonable need for a middle-level bureaucrat to travel to and from work in a Cadillac or a Lincoln. In this age of increasing federal spending cutbacks, he or she can just as well lose one symbol of power and replace it with the family car. Sen Proxmire's bill deserves speedy passage.

Proxmire's commendable logic should be extended to other levels of government, and it's obvious that local school and park districts and municipal governments should pay attention to his proposal. After all, the era of opulence for public officials who perform less than monumental duties is over.

Pisa's perplexing tilt

With many of our cherished notions of how the world should work falling around us, it isn't surprising to learn that the Leaning Tower of Pisa is about to fall, too.

It seems that the Tower keeps leaning — and leaning, and leaning, and may shortly collapse if some architectural remedy isn't found. Experts report that the entire city of Pisa is built over mud, and so tall buildings, once they start to tilt, just keep on tilting.

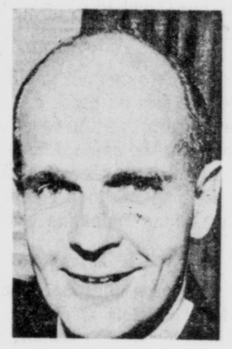
The problem's so perplexing that the Italian Ministry of Public Works recently ran a contest to find a solution — and to their astonishment, no one could come up with a workable plan. Therefore, no first prize was awarded.

Makes you feel good to know that government in other countries can't dredge up all the answers either, doesn't it?

The lighter side

Golf courses give us the edge

by DICK WEST



Willaim Proxmire

WASHINGTON — Sen. William Proxmire says the armed forces are spending $13.9 million a year to maintain a worldwide system of 300 military golf courses.

This is "a waste of the taxpayers' money in a time of inflation compounded by recession," he contends.

I was relieved to note, however, that he has not demanded an immediate cutback. For any sort of unilateral sand trap reduction at this time would be the height of folly.

It has been alleged that President Ford's Vladivostok arms agreement will give the Soviet Union missile superiority.

There is no doubt, however, that the United States holds a distinct edge in military golf courses.

With the Geneva arms limitation talks due to resume Jan. 31, America's bunker and water hazard strength could give our negotiators good bargaining leverage.

At least that was the position taken by Commodore Claus von Frigate, ret., a top military links expert, when I called him for reaction to Proxmire's statement.

Von Frigate told me that course numbers are relatively meaningless. What really matters is player capacity.

"Let us say that Russia had 350 military courses to our 300. Offhand, it would seem they had a clear advantage.

"The important strategic consideration, however, is the number of holes each course has. Our armed forces go in strongly for the 18-hole courses, whereas the Soviet golf program has been developed primarily on the 9-hole concept.

"Thus, at any given moment, we have more players teeing off than they do."

I said, "What about driving ranges?"

"In order to provide reasonable equality, which is essential for detente, any military golfing treaty would have to cover the entire spectrum of facilities," the Commodore replied.

"Our present global commitment, which extends to 19 foreign countries, includes 163 driving ranges, 178 practice greens and 19 pitch-and-putt layouts.

"If the treaty froze our facilities at that level, the Soviet Union would be permitted to build 10 additional pitch-and-putt courses to offset our player capacity advantage.

"The big sticking point is whether, once these limits are reached, the Soviets could expand some of their 9-holers to 18 holes and thus gain extra fairway capabilities.

"That is certainly something our intelligence apparatus should watch for. Where treaties are concerned, I wouldn't trust them as far as I can throw a caddy."

Pollution article hit

Fence post
letters to the editor

Your article on O'Hare emissions as a health hazard (The Herald, Jan. 9) contains several statements which are misleading to the public in regard to airport vicinity air pollution.

In regard to the total amount of air pollution in the Northwest suburbs, it is impossible to sort out the volume of pollutants attributable to each source. Nitrogen oxide, hydrocarbons and particulate matter are produced by internal combustion engines, home heating units, industry and aircraft, to mention a few sources. As the area has several major expressways and numerous arterials (Tri-State and Northwest Tollways, Oakton Avenue, Algonquin, Higgins, etc.), as well as a reasonable amount of industry, these sources all contribute to the deterioration of air quality in the area. To claim that aircraft emissions are greatly exceeding federal air quality standards and are the primary cause of air pollution is a misleading statement which is not representative of the actual situation. No measuring devices are currently available which are sensitive enough to distinguish aircraft emissions from other types of emissions, and the large number of sources preclude the airport being the primary source.

The article is also inaccurate when it states that the limit for nitrogen oxide (NO) is 160 micrograms per cubic meter of air. There are no known directly harmful effects connected with nitrogen oxide, and there are no standards regarding it in the federal air quality regulation. The figures quoted in the article are meaningless in the context in which they were used.

Such an article does no service to the public, and, by presenting only part of the picture, performs a disservice by causing undue alarm and worry.

Harold W. Poggemyer
Federal Aviation Administration
Dept. of Transportation
Des Plaines

EDITOR'S NOTE: Poggemyer is accurate when he says that there is no national standard for nitrogen oxides. However, there is a national standard for photochemical oxidants of which nitorigen oxides are a component. The other chief component is sulfur dioxide, which was not measured because aircraft fuel has a very low sulfur content. The nitrogen oxide levels around O'Hare, when considered as photochemical oxidants, do exceed the limits set down in the National Ambient Air Quality Standards (40-CFR-50). Poggemyer does not support his contention that there are no harmful effects from nitrogen oxides; however, some sources report this chemical is a main reactant in the photochemical reproduction of smog which does represent a serious hazard.

The other issue raised by Poggemyer questions whether the emission samples taken around O'Hare can discern between aircraft emissions between airplane pollution and auto pollution on adjacent highways. The Argonne study referred to mentions that the testing procedures involved the use of aircraft to take high level readings. The researchers noted that much of the data gathered from the fly-overs could be linked to aircraft because the emissions from autos do not rise to any great levels in the air.

Chamber lauds paramedics

Dear Chief Koeppen:

Within recent weeks the people of Wheeling have begun to benefit from a new and vital public service, a paramedic emergency squad. The project that brought this urgently needed program to reality concluded its final phase when 11 men who will staff the local unit completed the course of study required for state certification.

Certainly the entire community — elected officials, civic leaders, and individual citizens — can take pride in its contributions to the project. But the ultimate success of the program will depend on the skill and devotion of the men who respond to the emergencies. It is reassuring that even before these men assumed their daily duties they had demonstrated their fitness for the job by volunteering for the demanding work and by undergoing the rigorous training needed to achieve competence in this life-and-death profession.

The Wheeling Chamber of Commerce wishes to express its congratulations and its gratitude to these dedicated public servants and to voice its confidence in their future value to the community.

Backs meals plan

Try it, you'll like it. The Meals on Wheels volunteer driving. After completing one week of delivering hot dinners to senior citizens, I would like to encourage others to take advantage of this rewarding opportunity. If you have spare time and like to be met each day by smiling and happy faces, you could volunteer for a couple of days or a week. Finishing my week tomorrow I feel as though I am saying good-bye to long-time friends who I only met five days ago. The relationship is truly a warm one and for the few hours effort, much more is received in return.

Bob Lahey's column

Local Dems seek a voice

Two suburban Democratic township committeemen are attempting to bring their fellow suburbanites together to increase their voice in decisions in Cook County and state party affairs.

The 30 committeemen from Cook County townships outside the city of Chicago have been invited to a luncheon on Feb. 8 "to discuss those political problems that are unique to the suburban Democratic organizations."

A recent letter, signed by William Rose, Elk Grove Township committeeman, and Donald Norman, Wheeling Township committeeman, was sent to each of the committeemen, as well as to the top elected officials of the party throughout the state.

Though innocuous in content, the letter has overtones of the celebrated "coffee rebellion" of younger members of the Chicago City Council who attempted to pool their weight against the autocratic rule of Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley.

Often overlooked, Daley's position as Cook County Democratic chairman provides a substantial portion of his political power. While outwardly exhibiting little interest in political affairs outside the city, Daley nonetheless remains meticulously informed on affairs of the party in the suburbs, and suburban committeemen report to him regularly, with some exceptions.

Both Norman and Rose characterize the meeting, which they will conduct at Rose's Maitre D' Restaurant in Elk Grove Village, as a "get acquainted" affair at which the suburban committeemen can trade expertise on how to attract more Democratic votes.

The letter declares that the state's Democratic bigwigs have been invited "to discuss with us the various services and job opportunities provided by their respective offices in order that we may better serve our constituents."

That is political jargon for "how can we get more clout?"

Suburban committeemen have long been consigned to role of poor cousins to the 50 ward committeemen from Chicago who make up the Democratic juggernaut on election day, and who reap the rewards in patronage jobs.

Rose and Norman have been careful not to make their "get acquainted" luncheon appear as any clandestine move against Daley's autocracy.

Bob Lahey

In addition to the mayor, they have invited Gov. Daniel Walker, Lt. Gov. Neil Hartigan, Secretary of State Michael Howlett, State Treasurer Alan Dixon, state chairman John P. Touhy, Cook County Board President George Dunne, County Clerk Stanley Kusper, County Assessor Thomas Tully, County Sheriff Richard Elrod, County School Superintendent Richard Martwick and County Recorder of Deeds Sidney Olson.

Each has been invited to attend personally, or to send a personal representative.

Most are expected to respond, with one notable exception. As one committeeman put it, "The mayor won't send anybody. But he'll have 20 spies there to tell him what goes on."

Today is Thursday, Jan. 23, the 23rd day of 1975 with 342 to follow.

The moon is between its first quarter and full phase.

The morning star is Mars.

The evening stars are Mercury, Venus, Jupiter and Saturn.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Aquarius.

American patriot John Hancock was born Jan. 23, 1737. American actors Randolph Scott and Ann Sothern were born on this date — he in 1903 and she in 1923.

On this day in history:

- In 1845, Congress ruled that all national elections shall take place on the first Tuesday following the first Monday in November.
- In 1931, 17 Communists confessed they had conspired with Leon Trotsky to undermine the Soviet regime of Josef Stalin.
- In 1948, Gen. Dwight Eisenhower said he could not accept a presidential nomination from either party. But he ran as the Republican nominee four years later and became the 34th president of the United States.
- In 1973, President Nixon announced a peace agreement under which North Vietnam would release all American prisoners of war and the United States would withdraw all its forces from South Vietnam in 60 days.

A thought for the day: American author James Fields said, "How sweet and pious, even in common speech, is that fine sense which men call courtesy."

Double trump loss sinks South

It didn't take South more than 10 seconds to chuck his contract out the window. He grabbed his ace of spades, led the three of trumps and rose with dummy's jack after West followed with the five spot. It did take him quite a while to play the rest of the hand, but since he had no way to avoid the loss of two trumps, a spade and a diamond, all that followed was wasted effort.

South blamed bad luck. In one respect it was bad luck. A 4-0 trump break occurs just about 10 per cent of the time.

South's bad play was that he failed to guard against the actual 4-0 break. Give East all four trumps and South would have been helpless.

South could have guarded against all four in the West hand by the simple expedient of leading his queen of trumps. East would have shown out and later on South would have been able to lead through West's 10-9-5 and pick up the suit.

South would still have had some slight problems, but there were any number of ways to avoid the loss of more than one diamond trick.

PEOPLE BEHAVE like animals, says Dr. Michael W. Fox, a psychologist and veterinarian, so he studies them to better understand man. He's written two books to help cat and dog owners understand thier pets.

Animal behavior

Psychologist studies it to understand man

by DALE SINGER

Dr. Michael W. Fox says you have to look at the dog, the cat and the wolf to understand man.

Fox is a psychologist, a veterinarian and a member of the Psychology Department at Washington University, St. Louis, Mo. His books, lectures and experiments are aimed at helping man rediscover his animal nature, integrate it with his human intelligence and finally use his power to control his environment to make the world better for all creatures.

To accomplish this he has studied animal behavior, keeps a family of wolves deep in the recesses of Eads Hall at the university, and has written books for pet lovers and for children to help them get inside the minds of animals.

"People behave like animals," Fox said, "and we really shouldn't be surprised when they do because they are animals. Hopefully my books allow both children and adults to rediscover their kinship with animals."

Sitting in his cluttered office, surrounded by two stuffed dogs, pictures of animals and a box of computer cards labeled "wolf" in large letters Fox talked about how his experiments with animals help him understand man.

"We watch the family of wolves and see how the behavior of the various members interacts," he said. "How does the removal of one member of the family affect the rest? What happens when the one who was removed is brought back? What happens when a stranger is introduced?

"There is a very close affinity between wolf-the-hunter and man-the-hunter. Man was a hunter for at least a million years and he has a tremendous ancestral heritage of being a hunter. There are many affinities between men and wolves. In many ways these social hunting animals are much closer to man than are chimpanzees.

"WE TEND TO LOOK at a person in terms of how we might use him or, in the extremes, how we might manipulate him to our best advantage. We see the wilderness, an animal, a tree or a woman in the same way. It's a rather warped way of looking at things."

To try to change this perspective, Fox has written two kinds of books. In his three works of children's fiction he weaves his story around an animal's behavior and its environment and how it reacts with the men in its life, whether they are ranchers or hunters.

In his books for pet owners — "Understanding Your Dog" and the newly published "Understanding Your Cat" — he tries to get owners to understand the natural tendencies of their pets.

To begin with, he said, dogs and cats appeal to different types of owners. The successful owner of a cat is more likely to be inner directed, he said, a "do-your-own-thing" type of person, because a cat is a more independent type of animal. Dogs are more sociable, tend to be more dependent, and would be more suitable for an outgoing owner. A dog's higher degree of dependence also makes it easier to train a dog than a cat, Fox said.

"It's not intelligence and trainability that go together," he said. "It's dependence."

RAISING AN animal is similar to raising a child, Fox said. "You're not going to make a little girl into a boy," Fox said, "and you're not going to raise a kitten to be a dog. But if you relate openly, without prior expectations, you'll have a much different creature when it grows up than if you treat it like you expect it should be treated."

He said the theory is similar to the belief of the women's liberation movement, that little girls shouldn't be forced to fit certain roles just because those roles have traditionally been filled by women.

Of course, things don't always go right, and Fox said he meets many of the same psychological problems in pets that are found in children — jealousy, sibling rivalry, frank disobedience, depression, paranoia, eating problems and power struggles within the family.

Fox cited the case of a Pekingese that had long been the sole object of affection of a childless couple. Then they had a baby. The dog suddenly developed an hysterical paralysis of the hind legs. The solution, he said, was similar to what the solution would be if the patient were a person — either give the dog more affection or give it to a childless couple.

"Freud said basic human nature is basically rotten," Fox said, "but human nature and animal nature are really beautiful. Modern man has to rediscover his true nature as a highly sociable, loving creature — like the wolf."

Beltone anti-trust case rests with judge

Is hearing aid maker guilty of unfair practices?

by MONICA WILCH PERIN

Both sides have rested their cases in the hearing of Beltone Electronics Corp. versus the Federal Trade Commission.

Now it remains for Administrative Law Judge Miles J. Brown to decide whether the country's largest hearing aid manufacturer is guilty of "unfair and anticompetitive practices."

It is a case that involves several vital consumer issues.

As an anti-trust charge, brought under Section 5 of the FTC Act, the case involves the traditional economic problem resulting from monopolies: "Consumers have been deprived of the benefits of free competition."

However, in addition to that charge, the FTC argued that the public interest is being harmed in a non-economic way:

"Consumers have been deprived of their right to fair and impartial recommendations from dealers in the selection of hearing aids for the alleviation of their hearing impairment."

FTC ATTORNEYS argued that because of the various alleged monopolistic practices of Beltone, especially "exclusive dealing," its dealers are forced to misfit people with Beltone hearing aids even when they believe a competing manufacturer produces an aid better suited to the customer's problem.

Finally, buried within the case is a third consumer issue which one FTC attorney calls "a sleeper" with potentially "devastating" effects.

It is the issue of consumer mailing lists: Do consumers have a right of privacy from unsolicited commercial mail, and should companies and mailing list brokers be required to obtain consumers' permission before placing their names on commercial mailing lists?

The FTC alleged that Beltone requires its dealers to submit the names and addresses of their customers, and that the company conditions its product warranty on the submission of these names.

IN TESTIMONY it was established that Beltone at one time rented its lists of customer names and addresses to catalogue companies, insurance firms, vitamin pill retailers, retirement homes, charities and mailing list brokers, without the knowledge or permission of its customers or dealers.

The interesting aspect of this allegation is that there is no law against such practices. But the FTC included it among acts it regarded as "oppressive, coercive, unfair and anticompetitive," and it said the effect of this practice is that "dealers have been deprived of their ownership of, and freedom to maintain, confidential lists of their customers."

According to an FTC attorney who has been watching the case, a ruling in favor of the FTC could establish an important precedent on the direct mailing issue. This case could then be used in the future to argue that the sale, rental or use of consumers' names and addresses for commercial mailing purposes without their permission is unfair and thus a violation of the Federal Trade Commission Act.

IF SUCH AN interpretation were to come about, it would have enormous impact on the now-unregulated, multi-million dollar mail industry and on countless individual companies who rely on such lists.

The FTC's proposed order against Beltone would prohibit the company from requiring customers' names and addresses from dealers, and it would forbid the company to "maintain, use, publish or disseminate for any purpose" such names and addresses without the dealer's written consent.

But the substance of the case revolves around allegations that Beltone:

- Requires its dealers to sell only Beltone hearing aids (exclusive dealing)
- Requires its dealers to operate only within an assigned territory
- Requires its dealers to achieve a sales quota (called sales "potential" by Beltone) based on census figures
- Prevents persons other than authorized Beltone dealers from selling or repairing Beltone products

The government attempted to portray Beltone as a high-powered sales organization, tightly controlling its franchised dealers — who are supposed to be independent businessmen — in order to sell more Beltone hearing aids. For consumers, the allegations mean high prices, unnecessary or inadequate hearing aids, and inconvenience in obtaining service or repairs.

In its response to the complaint Beltone denied all charges. But during the hearing just concluded last month, it became apparent that much of the case turned on semantics, and on alleged verbal instructions and threats to dealers rather than on contractual agreements.

For example, Beltone at one time required exclusive dealerships. In 1956 the company lost an antitrust case to the FTC and was ordered to end this practice. Beltone deleted the requirement from its contracts, but informed its dealers:

"IT HAS ALWAYS been, and still is our philosophy that single-line merchandising in the hearing aid business is in the best interest of the public, the dealer and the manufacturer. We are confident that you and all other Beltone distributors will desire to handle only the Beltone line."

Beltone officials readily admitted this philosophy, but the company's position is that "single-line merchandising" does not amount to "exclusive dealing," and that their dealers are free to sell other brands if they wish.

But one ex-dealer testified that when he began selling other brands, because the Beltone line did not meet all his customers' needs, his Beltone supervisor told him, "We can't have that. You owe your loyalty to Beltone." He continued to sell other aids, he said, failing to meet his Beltone sales "potential," and his contract was canceled. Other ex-dealers gave similar testimony.

IN DEFENSE, Beltone's attorney, Julian Wilheim, attempted to cast doubt on the credibility and the financial stability of the ex-dealers. Wilheim drew out testimony from Beltone officials that some of the dealers had been delinquent in their Beltone accounts, and that they were canceled for these reasons, not for multiple-line selling.

The Beltone attorney also called into question the qualifications of the ex-dealers, who had received their hearing aid consultants' licenses automatically (the "grandfather clause") when licensing became required, rather than by passing a test as new consultants must do.

In addition, Wilheim questioned at least one dealer's expertise, establishing that the only training the dealer had was through workshops held by hearing aid manufacturers and trade associations.

IRONICALLY, THESE questions of automatic licensing and dealers' expertise are often raised by critics of the hearing aid industry. But the industry itself has insisted upon the "grandfather clause" for licensing established dealers, and has maintained that its own training sessions are adequate, even though certified audiologists study at the graduate level in universities two years before receiving their degrees.

A second issue in the case, territorial restriction, also seemed to be a matter of semantics. Beltone had in earlier contracts outlined a new dealer's "territory," but later contracts have discussed the dealer's "area of primary responsibility." The company insists its dealers are not restricted from selling outside their territory, while dealers testified to the contrary.

THE GOVERNMENT argued that territorial restrictions have hindered competition among Beltone dealers, thus helping to maintain artificially high retail prices — 300 per cent above wholesale prices.

But a Beltone spokesman termed the charge of territorial restriction "absurd." He said Beltone dealers are given a territorial "preference" to guard against "unethical, cut-throat business tactics" which he said might result if there were too many Beltone dealers in one area.

When reminded of Beltone's option to terminate dealers, its screening of dealer applicants, and the potential for contract restrictions on the use of the Beltone name, the spokesman still insisted these measures would be "inadequate" to control dealers' tactics.

"THE GOVERNMENT wants to require us to sell to anybody, and that would be a step backward for the industry," the spokesman said. "We would have no control over the business ethics or the service relating to our product."

The government's proposed order would, among other things, require Beltone to provide hearing aids, parts and repair services to any hearing aid dealer requesting them — unless:

- the dealer did not meet the technical standards required of Beltone dealers;
- the dealer did not meet Beltone's standards of professional competence or ethical conduct.

In those cases, Beltone could deny the request.

Columnist can't change things alone

The consumer

by Monica Wilch Perin

Now and then in the course of writing a weekly column — and otherwise covering a beat such as consumerism — it is good to stop and take stock. A letter from a Mount Prospect reader this week prompted such a pause for soul-searching on my part.

Normally, I would not bore my readers with a discussion of this process. But this particular letter writer, Mr. K, brought up some provocative points which I think need to be dealt with — not only by myself but also by all readers of this column.

Mr. K apparently wrote his letter after reading last week's column which listed various consumer agencies and organizations and their phone numbers. Mr. K's letter read in part:

"YOU ARE PROBABLY certain you are performing a public service. Get out of your little safety zone and spell out who and why we have certain legislation. Spell out what lobbies do and how our elected officials vote and why. Tell the consumer why and where. Don't come out with these nickel and dime protests. Tell us how, if possible, we can change some of the consumer detrimental rulings. Don't tell us how to take aspirin, tell us how to remove the malignancy."

Pretty strong stuff, and I intend to keep a list of those points around for future reference and self-judgment. They are, indeed, precisely the kinds of issues a consumer writer should be writing about.

But I would also ask Mr. K where he has been for the past 2½ years.

ON THE SUBJECT of legislation, for example, we have presented ongoing in-depth coverage and analysis of such consumer-legislative issues as the Consumer Product Safety Commission (which has come into being during this time), the Consumer Protection Agency (which still has not passed both houses of Congress, because of several opponent factions whom we have discussed in numerous articles), the Consumer Product Warranty Act (which was just signed into law) and the current landlord-tenant reform movement in Illinois (still anopen ballgame for any consumers interested in voicing their opinion on what should be done — we named the key people on both sides of the issue.

On the subject of lobbies, we have analyzed the milk lobby, which keeps dairy prices artificially high, and the hearing aid industry lobby, which is fighting regulation of that multi-million dollar business. We wrote also about the lobbies that secure the Fair Trade laws which sanction price-fixing of numerous consumer products.

IN THE AREA of elected officials, we published last March a lengthy consumer coalition survey of how our elected representatives voted on a host of consumer issues, we discussed the consumer stands of national candidates during the previous elections, and we have repeatedly analyzed the functioning and effectiveness of the various executive agencies.

As for sticking one's neck out and changing things, various investigations by this and other Herald writers often elicit the wrath of the companies or individuals exposed (even threats of lawsuits), as well as anger from our own advertisers and readers. One large national company has had to curtail its misleading advertising as a result of coverage here.

How can we change things, Mr. K? Not overnight, and not single-handedly. But — to give you a few hints — this column two weeks ago told about an anticipated consumer "rip-off" and what consumers can do to stop it. We have also written about a local legislator's efforts to find out what sort of legislation consumers in the northwest suburbs want. Have you contacted her?

We're in there plugging, Mr. K, and we do on occasion get results. What are you doing to help?

CORRECTION: Sherry Weinstein, would-be organizer of the Buffalo Grove Consumer Council, heatedly notified this column that she does NOT want people calling her at the number listed here last week. She said it is her own phone, and she is not interssted in having a consumer council unless the village will give her office space and a phone.

Instead of calling Mrs. Weinstein, consumers may contact the Consumer Advocate's office, 793-2754, or The Herald, 394-2300 Ex. 270.

Full freezer costs less

The homeline

by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: At the store I mentioned that my freezer was only two-thirds full and someone said it costs more to operate this way — that I ought to fill it with bags of ice cubes. This just doesn't seem logical somehow. What is the score?—Joyce Bemis

I can see how this might seem like a nonsense statement. But it's true. Everything you put into a freezer once frozen contributes to the chilling process and, therefore, the fewer times the box has to start up. So there is a readily apparent saving on energy pull. So, if you have empty spaces, by all means fill them with bags of ice cubes.

Dear Dorothy: My wife urged me to write you. While on my own one evening, I used the oven for a quick meal. I didn't realize grease was dripping to the bottom of the oven until there was a good deal of smoke. Poured baking soda on the smoking area which by then was hot and heavy and it stopped immediately. It was a good help until the oven could be cleaned.—Dr. Gerald M. Besler

I've been teased so often about my ardent advocacy of baking soda as the No. 1 household aid that I feel a sense of vindication when letters like yours arrive. Thank you!

Dear Dorothy: For years we tried to discover a way of using evaporated milk in hot coffee without curdling when carrying it in a Thermos. Finally figured it out. Pour a cup or so of hot coffee in the Thermos, add evaporated milk and shake well — then continue filling the jug with coffee.—Fran Slavin

Dear Dorothy: Someone told me that whole, shelled nuts will not get as rancid as chopped. Why?—Millicent Hodgson Simply because there is more exposed surface in chopped nuts.

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to her in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.)

When ordering by mail, know your plants

Potting shed
by Mary B. Good

A fellow reporter suggested I write about seed and plant "gyps." At the time I had just completed the column that ran last week in which I discussed taking advantage of all the nickel and dime seed offers that crop up in flower magazines each spring.

My reporter friend was more concerned with "being taken" than with taking up mail order seedsmen and nurserymen on their offers.

I have to confess I've only been cheated once and that was on an introductory gift for a plant of the month gimmick. When the free gift arrived, it was so cheesy and shriveled. I decided that if this was an indication of things to come, I just wouldn't let them come and I cancelled out.

My reporter friend pointed out ads she had seen for rose bushes that produce five different color roses on a single plant and plants that produce tomatoes on top and potatoes on the bottom. I never have sent for "pomato" plants because common sense tells me I won't get an outstanding crop from either end. It's simply a novelty, a conversation-piece, to my way of thinking. And I've always been skeptical that multi-roses might turn out sickly. (Any readers care to comment on their successes or failures with such items?)

I GUESS THE secret to keep from being stung on any mail order is to avoid swallowing tall tales of plants that are hypoed as able-to-leap - small - buildings - in - a - single - growth - spurt - type of sensational advertising.

If you believe that a robinia tree will grow 25 feet a year, then you must also believe in Jack-in-the-beanstalk, the Jolly Green Giant and the Great Pumpkin.

If you find an ad for a miracle super seed placed in a magazine for the lovelorn, a porno rag, or a racing form, the quality of the medium tells you something about the product, don't you think?

Reputable growers belong to the American Association of Nurserymen or the Association of Mail Order Nurserymen, and they stand behind their seeds and plants with a money-back guarantee. Other clues: you can tell a reputable seed merchant by the length of time he has been in business. An attractive catalog shows pride in a product too. Color reproductions are expensive, and fly-by-night fleecers and quick-buck artists don't invest in expensive catalogs.

BUT MOST IMPORTANT to remember when buying plants mail order is knowing what you are buying. Expect to receive a commensurate value for the money expended. For exampe, don't expect a specimen evergreen for $3.98. READ the description (5-year, 9-12 inch arbor vitae, for instance). For $3.98 you'll hardly get more than a seedling. Remember, too, that post office regulations prohibit sending packages larger than a combined length and girth of 84 inches and 40 pounds in weight.

Many times people receive young, bare-root whips or seedlings instead of bloom-age trees or perennials. Mail order nurserymen are to blame if they deceive by showing ads or mature plants covering whole hillsides with color, implying that an instant jungle is on the way. Truth is, you'll wait years for a mature tree or flowering shrub.

If you're a novice at sorting out which is a rip-off and which is a good plant buy mail order-wise, perhaps you'd be better off to buy from a good, local nursery where what you see is what you get!

Key battles on league's weekend card

by KEITH REINHARD
Wrestling Editor

The quirks of the schedule begin to loom over the horizon as Mid-Suburban League wrestling heads into the stretch with another full slate of meets on tap Friday night.

Headlining the list of hookups will be Buffalo Grove's visit to Arlington. Hersey, meanwhile, will be entertained by Fremd in another crucial North Division encounter while Elk Grove, the very likely South Division champ, rolls into Conant.

It is in the North where the logjam has developed and Friday's action will not necessarily settle a lot. Because of the unwieldy 13-team size of the conference, some clubs are going to end up seeing more league combat than others and depending how things go Friday, Hersey stands to get hurt the most.

The difference in number of meets stems from the fact that Hoffman Estates out of the South has lost crossover outings to Buffalo Grove, Arlington and Fremd. The other North Division teams are not afforded the opportunity to do battle with this new league entry and will have to settle for seven meets, compared to eight for the Cardinals, Bison and Vikings.

So if the Redbirds were to get bumped off by the Grove tomorrow and subsequently knock off the Huskies next week, the result would be to have Buffalo Grove and Arlington tying for first at the finish line (7-1 each) while Hersey settles for third (6-1).

Or if the Cards won Friday and then knotted their dual meet with Hersey, they would wind up first (7-0-1) while an undefeated Huskie unit earned no better than second (6-0-1).

The only alternative for coach Rick Mann's group is to keep on winning, a very traditional league habit anyway over the past five years.

Meanwhile, the Card-Bison affair is rated as pretty much of a tossup with key bouts likely to unwind at 98, 126 and 155. There are few weaknesses in either lineup.

Other combat Friday will have Palatine at Wheeling, Prospect at Forest View and Rolling Meadows at Schaumburg, the latter shaping up into a real donnybrook between two excellent dual meet teams.

Unfortunately, neither the Mustangs nor Saxons have much of a prayer of catching up with the Grenadiers, still unbeaten in the South. Second place is still in the offing though and these notoches are important since they will be a determining factor (along with the conference meet) in deciding an overall MSL kingpin.

Last weekend, the clubs coming out furthest ahead after a big flurry of loop action were Arlington, Hersey and Meadows, each collecting a pair of victories.

The Mustangs, with Roger Mattix back in the lineup, roared to their 10th and 11th straight wins overall while disposing of Forest View and Prospect handily. Against the View Jim Carlstrom dropped a 2-0 toughie to undefeated John Gross at 112 but brother Roy avenged it with a 4-0 decision over Kevin Smith.

Knight heavyweight Tim Greiner surprised Bob Newell to wind up a successful weekend (he had edged Elk Grove's Doug Antonik the previous day) and teammate Jim Bethell also added two more notches to his belt.

Elk Grove had blitzed Prospect Friday despite the absence of a hobbled Leo Montemayor. Rick Morris picked up his eighth pin of the campaign en route.

Also in the South it was Schaumburg and Forest View both picking on Conant. Bright spots for the Cougars were double winners John Gallo and Ron Burhite. Saxon Tom Sielski tied 2-2 with Tim Goergen in one tough faceoff and Schaumburg's Ron Kuchnia felled Phil Kerr in another.

The Falcons had Guy Semar, Dave Swanson and Bruce Dziubla for double winners. View's Gross and Terry Ruddy of the Saxons both kept their unblemished slates intact along the way.

In the North the main attraction was Hersey's 24-20 win over upstart Buffalo Grove, undefeated overall prior to last weekend. The Huskies spotted their guests a 16-0 lead and were trailing 19-4 at the midway mark.

Then unbeaten Mark Furlong kicked off a rally for the hosts with a 17-7 romp and they proceeded to win five and tie one over the second half of the lineup. Bison Tom Bickner and Kevin Temesy stalemated 6-6 in one classic faceoff while reservists Jack Watters provided Hersey with the go ahead points via a surprise fall at 185.

Hersey knocked off Palatine the following day to remain undefeated in conference. Joe Sheppard, Lance Gackowski and Dave Hanetho were the only Pirate winners.

The Cardinals spanked both Wheeling and Fremd to remain a pace ahead of the Huskies. Steve Scott, Dan Weber, Gary Holub, John Preissing, Herb Darmofal, Lee Weicz and Jim Stanczak posted a pair of wins apiece with Weicz including an impressive 4-2 nod over Vike Jeff Sveinsson among his conquests.

Fremd and Palatine had battled to a standoff Friday. Doug McCarthy of the Vikings came up with a couple of nifty wins over the weekend and Dan Lynch, Dan Stark and Jeff Ossler were also two-time victors.

Bounce back after loss to Hersey

Bison win two outside conference

by KEITH REINHARD
Wrestling Editor

In their sternest non-conference test of the season, Buffalo Grove wrestlers came up with a .667 batting average Saturday.

The Bison engaged the 1-2-4 finishers from the Glenbrook South Holiday Tournament and knocked off two out of three of them in a showcase triple dual meet showdown on their own mats. Their lone loss — to tourney champ Glenbrook North — was their second setback this season to go with a dozen wins and a tie.

Other non-league combat over the weekend had Wheeling splitting three at Lake Forest, Schaumburg waltzing and Elk Grove and Hoffman Estates involved in close ones. Here's how the action transpired:

BUFFALO GROVE 28, EVANSTON 21
BUFFALO GROVE 27, BARRINGTON 18
GLENBROOK N. 24, BUFFALO GR. 17

Rich Wilhelm and Brian Gibbons were impressive triple winners as the Bison disposed of two out of three strong area clubs. Wilhelm did not yield a point while racking up 38 in notching his three victories.

Against the Spartans, very narrow losses by Terry McCann and Tom Bickner spelled the difference. Tim Foley also dropped a tough 4-2 decision to highly regarded Pete Somberg at 105.

The Evanston triumph was sparked by Kevin Lewis and Bob Fechtner pins while Jim Brough trimmed Chuck Walsh, Jerry Bickner dumped Brian Erbach, Fechtner edged Al Adams and Gibbons crunched Tad Smith to aid the verdict over Barrington.

SCHAUMBURG 52, LAKE PARK 3

Practically everyone got in the winning act as the Saxons pummeled the Lancers to up their overall record to 12-4-1. Pins by Phil Hamilton, Ron Kuchnia, Mori Bello and Gary Bolger and Joe Hannon's 7-0 win at 119 were especially impressive.

WHEELING 44, LAKE FOREST 5
WHEELING 21, HOLY CROSS 21
HIGHLAND PARK 27, WHEELING 18

Tony Lucente battled his way to three victories while Ken Kent picked up a couple of forfeits to go with a 5-2 decision to highlight the Wildcat cause at Lake Forest Saturday.

Wheeling rallied on a pin by Carl Robbins and decisions by Ed Wargo and Kent to come back from a 21-9 deficit against the Crusaders. They didn't go to work early enough against Highland Park however after trailing 24-6.

The romp over the host Scouts included four forfeits and shutouts by Bob Busse, Phil Dietrich, Lucente, Kurt Rathje and Robbins.

HINSDALE CENTRAL 25,
ELK GROVE 22

Hinsdale won four of the first six bouts and then held on to issue the visiting Grenadiers their fourth loss in 12 dual meets overall.

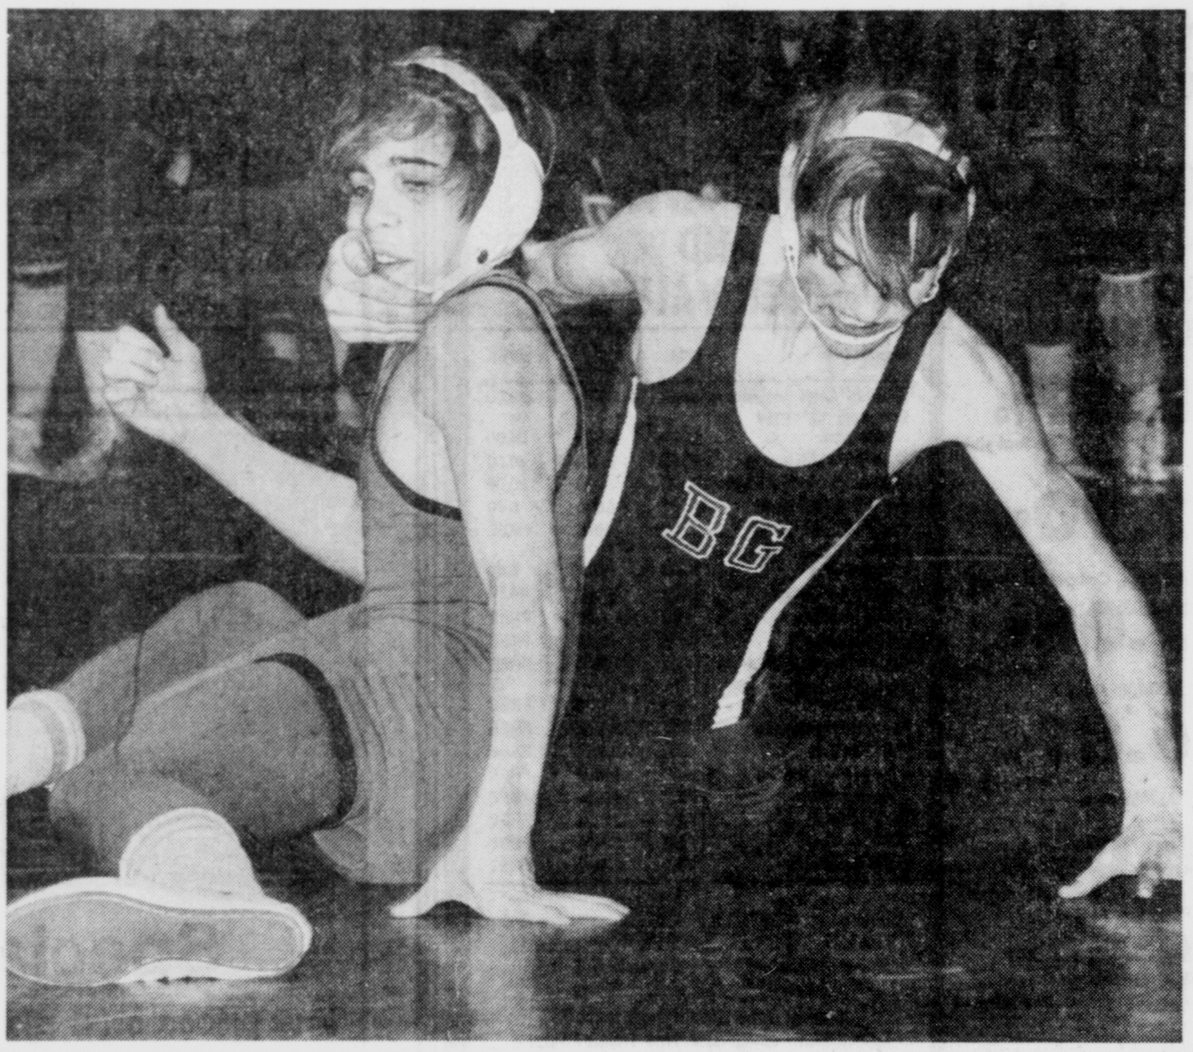
Rick Morris and Tim McGuire forged pins after that in trying to turn things around but the hosts rallied from a 22-15 deficit in the final two matches.

HOFFMAN ESTATES 26,
WHEATON NORTH 21

The Hawks roared into a 26-2 lead but then dropped the final four outings to make it look close. Sparking the opening surge was Chad McCreary with a second-round pin.

Others chipping in as Hoffman upped their overall slate to 3-12 were Darcy Rice, Bob Groeble, John Roberts, Mike Brewka, Dan Kaufman, Tom Fabbrini and Jim Thomas.

Spotlight on wrestling



TERRY THE TERROR. Buffalo Grove's Terry McCann works on Matt Del Principe of Hersey en route to a 15-0 decision that helped the Bison into an early lead. The hosting Huskies later battled back to a 24-20 victory in a conference battle of the unbeatens Friday night. (Photo by Jim Frost)

Drought ends for St. Viator in mat action

The long drought for St. Viator's wrestling team ended Friday night.

And the Lions almost made it look easy as they toppled visiting St. Patrick 31-21 for their first dual meet triumph of the season. It put their Suburban Catholic Conference record at 1-2 and when they were felled by Maine North the following day 30-19, their overall slate stood at 1-11-1.

Against the Shamrocks Viator came up with a quick 11-0 lead on wins by Rich Carpenter and Scott Malouf and a pin by Tim Jordan and never relinquished control. St. Pat's was still in contention, however, until Scott Zettek salted it away with a first-round fall in the heavyweight finale.

St. Viator also jumped into an early lead against the Norsemen but lost four straight starting at 112 including three by pin and trailed the rest of the way despite late wins by Frank Swidor, Jeff O'Connor and Zettek.

Two regulars missing: West drops first duel

With a couple of regulars missing from the lineup and a couple more sustaining upset defeats, Maine West wrestlers absorbed their first setback of the season at Niles East Friday, 28-16.

The Warriors bounced back the next day to trim Niles West 30-13. In another Central Suburban League mat outing Friday Highland Park turned back Maine East 26-21.

The Trojans picked up crucial wins over Maine West at 132 and 145 as well as at 105 where Rob Krusinski dropped a tough 5-2 decision to highly touted Jeff Rock. The guests were still in contention however 16-16 before East captured the last three bouts to win going away.

Maine West stormed back the next day on big shutout wins by Bryan Real, Brad Bonnivier and Ralph Rolape to up their circuit record to 5-1. Krusinski also bounced back with an impressive 6-3 verdict over Bob Porter and the hosting Warriors wound up losing only two bouts all day.

The Demons fell behind early 20-6 and then rallied to nearly catch the Giants but ended up taking their fourth loss in six CSL meetings. Setbacks at 112, 119 and 167 hurt the most while key help was provided by Mike Silcroft with a pin at 105.

Maine East also lost Saturday to undefeated Addison Trail 29-17 despite Curt Schmidt's 18-2 romp at 112 and shutouts by Dave Hokin and Mike Semmerling.

Maine West now sports a 12-1 overall record while the Blue Demons are 3-8.

Scorekeepers needed for Paddock tourneys

Locating scorekeepers for the Paddock bowling tournaments is always a challenge, particularly for the mixed league event Saturday night, according to Marian Phillips, tourney manager.

"We're counting on the compensation of $30 for all five squads, Saturday evening and all day Sunday, to attract the eight more persons in a hurry," stated Mrs. Phillips.

Experienced scorekeepers wishing to be considered are asked to call Mrs. Phillips at 394-2300.

Harper pulls goalie, puts shot in for 6-6 deadlock

A goal by Tom McEnerney with three seconds to play gave Harper a 6-6 tie at Madison Tech in junior college hockey action Monday.

Harper coach Pat Huffer pulled goalie Cliff Graham in the final minute in order to put six forwards on the ice, and McEnerney came up with the tying goal, assisted by Jay Woloshyn.

"This time it paid off," said Huffer. "Usually, pulling the goalie is a futile effort."

The deadlock brought Harper's record to 5-4-2 this season, the Hawks' first as a varsity-level team. Huffer's squad is 3-1-1 in action against other junior colleges.

The scoring stars for the Hawks were Mark Dason, who notched three goals, and McEnerney, who contributed two goals and four assists. Woloshyn added the other marker.

The Hawks jumped out to a 3-1 lead in the first period and they held a 3-2 edge going into the final stanza. But the Madison Tech icers blitzed goalie Graham and his Harper defenders with four goals in the third period.

"Graham did a fine job," Huffer said. "He's our third-string goaltender — Mike Mattox has a broken finger and our other goalie was home with the flu."

Graham stopped 31 Madison Tech shots as Tech outshot Harper 37-32.

The Hawks will be back in action Sunday, hosting Loyola at Randhurst starting at 7 p.m.

Tanner-Caray feud signals end for Sox' popular voice

Paul Logan
Associate Sports Editor

Last Thursday I got an upset stomach. It came soon after consuming a fine dinner at the annual White Sox touring press banquet in Joliet.

The meal wasn't to blame. It was delicious.

The stomach problem was brought on by post-dinner comments. Following the usual optimistic predictions by Sox entourage, the word "liar" was used several times to describe White Sox announcer Harry Caray.

Since Harry wasn't part of the traveling show, he was fair game for all on the dais who wished to take shots at him. Several made some semi-funny remarks, but Sox manager Chuck Tanner was the most critical.

Tanner had resented Caray's caustic comments during the season, especially when players didn't seem to be putting out enough. So Tanner opened up on the voice of the Sox with a B-B gun and later with a howitzer.

"We open up with a Japanese team on March 7," said Tanner, wearing a wry smile. "And if we lose, I'm going to commit hara-kiri!"

Such a line was on a par with what had been said by other Sox people. But when the question was finally raised concerning just how Tanner felt about Caray, the Sox manager unloaded his cannons.

"He's a front-running, second-guessing liar," said Chuck, minus the usual smile. "He's a liar 90 per cent of the time. . ."

Those two sentences stunned the previously jovial media crowd. It was obvious that Tanner had had enough questions about Harry at the previous stops on the tour.

Following those harsh statements, Tanner said he'd field any question. And as he said it, he stood in an intimidating fashion — one foot on his chair while leaning over the speaker's table.

That's when my stomach began to church. It's the feeling you get when things have suddenly gone bad and you can't change them for the better.

It's no secret that the two men have been at odds several times since they were hired by the Sox. Tanner believes that Caray sometimes hurts his team by going beyond the bounds of an announcer.

Using Jack Brickhouse as a yardstick, Tanner's right. But Brickhouse — as his last name strongly points out — is a "houseman" as well as a full-time cheerleader. Today's baseball fan is too intelligent to accept the old-fashioned style of Brickhouse.

Harry Caray provides the fan with a balanced reporting job — being both rah-rah and hard-hitting, depending on the situation. He makes watching the Sox on TV or listening to them on radio a pleasure.

Since superstar Dick Allen has been traded away, the average baseball fan would probably answer "Harry Caray!" if asked who he thought of when he heard the name White Sox. Next to Allen, Caray was probably the most popular man associated with the team.

Still, his contract was renewed for just one year. Caray's cohort in the booth — Bob Waller — wasn't hired again. It seems Bob learned Harry's tell-it-like-it-is style too well and stepped on the same toes Harry had marched over.

So the Sox replaced a young, articulate, experienced announcer with J. C. Martin — older, less articulate and lacking experience.

Martin played over half his career with the Sox, making him a perfect "houseman" in the booth.

"I hope to tell it like it is," said Martin of his new assignment. He failed to define just what he meant.

Somehow, I've got the feeling he had this in mind:

"Hey, Harry, it's not that way at all. Carlos May's really hustling. It's just that he's got this weight problem. Tell it like it is, Harry."

Chuck Tanner

Could Howard Cosell and Jack Brickhouse work together in the same broadcasting booth for a whole season? No way.

Can Caray and Martin co-exist as play-by-play announcer and color man? If there's a way, I haven't figured it out yet.

I can only see Martin helping drive Caray out of town. And if that happens, well, Holy Cow.

ALL EYES ARE on the basketball and Arlington's Jerry DeSimone, left, John Yaezel (12) and Wheeling's leaping Keith Schildt hope it bounces their way Friday night in the Cardinal gym. Arlington fell behind early but came back to trim the visiting Wildcats, 56-51. (Photo by Jim Frost)

Yankee knowhow comes to foreign trade

Des Plaines firm ready to blaze still more trails

by LEA TONKIN

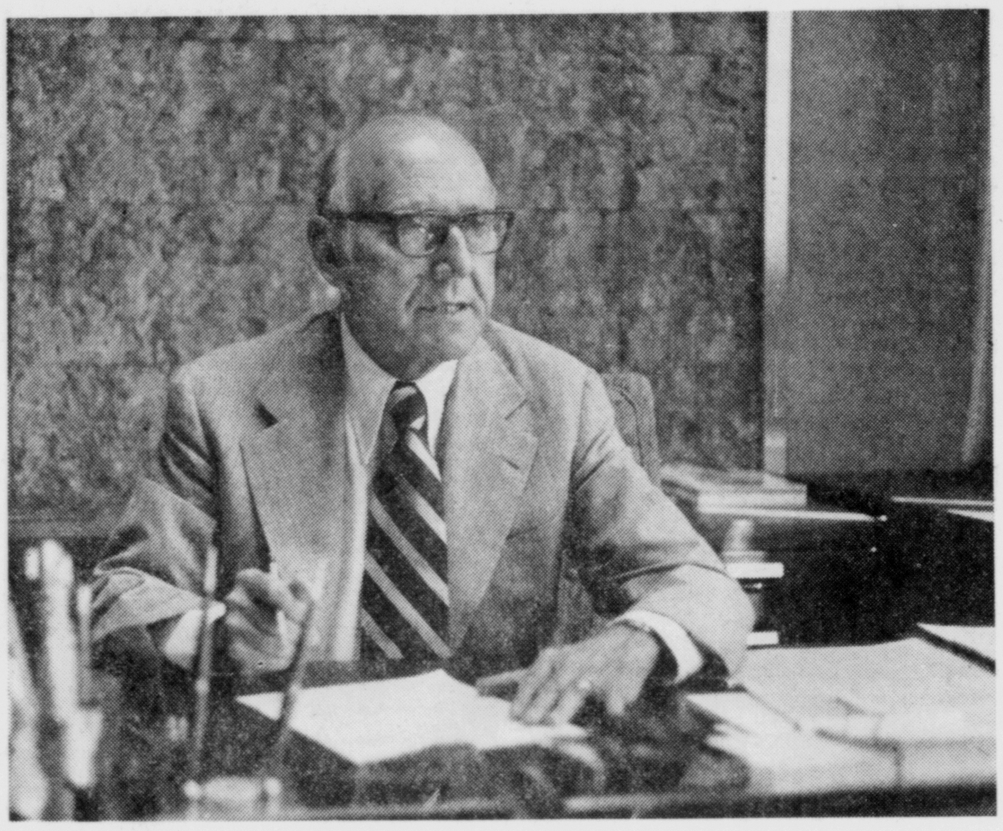
The door to East-West trade is swinging wide open, broadening markets that are bristling with promise. And one of the first U.S. companies getting in on the ground floor of the new trade market is a Northwest suburban firm that has been heavily involved in foreign trade for years.

Executives at the Des Plaines-based Universal Oil Products Co. have enough Yankee trader instinct to know when a potentially good customer comes along, said UOP's Robert Johnson, commenting on broadened trade markets. In the coming year, developing markets will be "particularly vital" to American business, he said. Johnson serves as director of planning and communications for UOP.

The benefits and challenges of "boundless new markets" should draw an increasing number of companies such as UOP, predicted U.S. Commerce Sec. Frederick B. Dent. He's talking about trade in Eastern Europe, the Soviet Union, the Far East and the oil-rich nations of the Mideast.

THE SOVIET UNION is among the most promising new markets for UOP products, Johnson believes. The local company deals in "knowhow," a vital commodity in the petroleum, chemical and petrochemical fields. As Johnson explains, "We're in a recession but they're not. They need what we've got and we need something they've got."

Trading with the Soviets "goes far beyond the profit motive," said Johnson, who planned 18 months for UOP officials' meeting with Russian planning and technology officials last November. As he sees it, the alternatives are simple. "You're either going to trade with people and be friends with them, or you're going to fight with them," he said. Johnson said American exports also boost business in the U.S. as firms crank out the manufactured products and technology that are sought by other countries.



SITTING DOWN to talk trade deals with the Soviets requires an understanding of the bureaucracy within a controlled economy, said Robert Johnson of UOP, Des Plaines. The firm recently signed a Soviet trade pact.

The recent flak about "most-favored nation" status for the Soviets could slow up East-West trade, Johnson said. Yet he believes that UOP is successful in its bid to make an impact on Soviet planners, the key to profitable trade in the U.S.S.R.

"You're dealing in big chips," Johnson said. "Our business in Russia is probably $6 million to $10 million in 1974." A company must be prepared to make an investment in preliminary talks, before any deals are negotiated.

THE PAYOFF can be worthwhile, Johnson said. He cited the UOP cooperative agreement signed last fall with the Soviet Council of Ministers for Science and Technology, the 28th U.S.-Soviet pact of its kind. UOP is the first U.S. company to sign a protocol agreement with the U.S.S.R. Ministry for the Oil Refining and Petrochemical Industry at the Moscow meetings last November.

"The potential business is huge," Johnson said. "There are 700,000 people in the oil ministry alone. I think we were successful in getting the people in the Soviet business community to know who we were."

The initial trade and protocol agreements may serve as a springboard for expanded UOP sales to Soviet agencies. Discussions also may lead to an agreement that would permit UOP to license Soviet technology in other countries and to open an accredited office in Moscow. Petroleum refining, chemical and gas technology and clean air and water technology are among the UOP products targeted for sale in the U.S.S.R.

Sitting down to talk trade deals with the Soviets requires an understanding of how business is conducted in the U.S.S.R., Johnson cautioned. "When you're dealing with Russia or any state-controlled economy, you're dealing at the state level," he said. Protocol and patience are required as the inevitable delays are encountered.

An organizational chart will help the fledgling U.S. exporter to grasp the essentials of Soviet bureaucracy. Johnson said the usual approach of dealing directly with companies that turn out goods and services will lead to sales but no profits, "like the wheat deal." That's because Soviet industries are way down on the organization chart. "Our philosophy is to get up here," he said, indicating the Soviet planning ministries.

JOHNSON SAID UOP sunk a "year and a half's worth" of planning into its initial trade agreement program. As coordinator of the carefully planned effort, he helped arrange the technology seminars and briefings for a delegation of 25 UOP officials and scientists in their visit to Russia last fall.

There are fringe benefits to be gained from the Soviets that cannot be measured in dollars and cents, Johnson believes. "You get to know them as people. You find they have the same hopes and desires," he said. Despite the cultural differences apparent in architecture and the arts, there are many similarities in the lifestyles of business executives in the U.S. and Russia.

"After you drink a few vodkas together, you get to know each other and find out that they don't wear horns after all," Johnson said. "I've come to the conclusion that detente is far more than business relations. We've come to know it as a means for peace."

Soviet action to 'cool' trade with U.S.: expert

The Soviet Union's decision to nullify the 1972 trade agreement with the United States, announced last week, likely will "cool things for a while," said Gerald Marks, regional director at the U.S. Dept. of Commerce office in Chicago.

The Soviet action follows passage of the Trade Act of 1974. The measure limited credits through the Export Import Bank and linked trade with U.S.S.R. to immigration policies. Despite the reaction by Russia to the new trade pact, "Most companies that were talking about negotiations are going ahead," Marks said. The outlook for expanded Soviet trade could be adversely affected if the conflict is not resolved, he said.

The "most-favored nation" status that would have been extended to the Soviets would mean lower tariffs for Russian good imported into the United States. The lower tariffs could boost Russian exports and their willingness to buy from R.S. companies, Marks said.

The most recent figures available, for 1973, show imports from the U.S.S.R. totaled $214 million. The figure compares to $1.1 billion in U.S. exports to Russia. "A country needs to export to get foreign exchange, to pay for its imported products," Marks said.

Beverages, minerals and fuels, chemicals and manufactured goods are some of the items the U.S. imports from the U.S.S.R. The United States exports food and live animals, machinery, trucks and other items to Russia.

Moyles and Associates Inc.; Trans World Airlines; Columbus Lines Overseas Agency; Barclays Bank International Ltd., and Roanoake Agency.

CARGO BOUND for foreign markets, stowed by air transport workers, can boost U.S. sales during a recession. In addition to machinery and food products, markets are developing for U.S. technology.

Chemicals, machines top list for foreign investors

Foreign investors zeroed in on chemicals, nonelectrical machinery and electrical machinery during 1974, a report issued by the Conference Board indicates.

The national business organization said foreign companies announced plans for 44 new investments in U.S. manufacturing facilities during the final quarter of 1974, bringing the total for the year to 244 projects. Planned expenditures for 125 of the 244 investments were announced, amounting to $2.2 billion.

The largest number of investments last year were announced by Japan (45), Great Britain (44) and West Germany (43). Following these three nations were Canada and the Netherlands, with 26 each.

THE MOST FAVORED three industries for foreign investments were chemicals (61), nonelectrical machinery (31) and electrical machinery (30). California was the location of 29 of the investments announced in 1974, leading all other states. Following California were Massachusetts, 16, and Texas, 15.

About two-thirds of the 1974 investments involve the construction or expansion of new manufacturing facilities in the U.S. The remainder represent the acquisition of U.S. firms by foreign interests.

The conference Board, which has been compiling data on foreign investment intentions since the beginning of 1973, has discovered no investment announcements in U.S. manufacturing by members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

David Bauer, an international research economist and director of the foreign investment survey, points out: "Relatively little information is available on the sources of funds used by foreign firms for investment projects in this country.

"The possibility exists, however, that some firms in the oil-consuming countires may have obtained funds from the OPEC nations which have been used to finance investments in this country. It is unlikely, however, that such investments, even if they have occurred, have provided OPEC nations with any measure of control over U.S. manufacturing facilities."

Walgreen sales up for first quarter

The biggest volume quarter in Walgreen Company history was reported by President Charles R. Walgreen III in his address to the firm's annual shareowners' meeting.

Walgreen said that preliminary sales figures for the first fiscal quarter of 1975 were up 7.7 per cent to a new high of $306,128,326 compared to $284,190,348 for 1974's record first quarter.

While earnings figures for the period are not yet available, Walgreen noted he expects this year's first quarter earnings to compare "quite favorably" with 1974's record-breaking first quarter, after adjusting for LIFO accounting in order to obtain comparable figures.

Regarding the 7.7 per cent increase in first quarter sales, Walgreen noted, "We had aimed for more, but our Globe Division's volume difficulties lowered final results. Our Walgreen Drug Stores recorded a solid sales gain of over 10 per cent for the quarter.

"One reason for that substantial gain," Walgreen continued, "is that from a drug store marketing standpoint — purchasing, merchandising, advertising — this was the best-planned Christmas we've ever had."

Walgreen added that the economy made this a "drug store kind of Christmas. We anticipated that shoppers would concentrate on lower-price gifts," he said, "and that turned out to be the name of the game. In toys for instance, we concentrated on under-$5 items, and sales were excellent."

Walgreen also stated that the firm had a heavy carryover of tree lights from the previous year but had a good sell-out this year. Other categories achieving record sales, he said, were cosmetics, candies, cigars, lighters and paperback books.

Additionally, Walgreen noted that demand for small electrical appliances for the home was also strong.

"The area of our business which felt the most direct impact of the economy," said Walgreen, "is Globe, our department store division. Globe's problems started early in the year during the Phase IV period when price controls helped to erode profits. Then, of course, rising inflation and recession slowed Globe sales growth.

"Unlike our drug stores," stated Walgreen, "profits were further impeded by consumer reluctance to buy higher-ticket items - refrigerators, ranges, TV sets and so on. A major portion of Globe's current volume decline came from decreases in major appliance sales.

Turning to the Walgreen Restaurant Divison, Walgreen said that although the firm's food volume now exceeds $75 million and is growing, "Today's inflation-recession syndrome is causing some softness in the restaurant business, and we've acted fast to counteract any letdown.

We're featuring more modestly priced, more promotional menus. We're concentrating on better profit margin areas. We're concentrating on alert, advantageous food purchasing. We're carefully maintaining our standards of quality food, pleasant service and moderate prices. And because people like that combination, our restaurant business — an important part of our corporate mix — is going to continue to grow."

Throughout his address, Walgreen reasserted his Company's commitment to consumerism, saying, "It's a reputation that is a precious company asset. We are committed to the consumer. We are committed to doing everything possible to hold prices down."

Townhomes stay strong during housing slump

Townhomes, which, together with condominiums, emerged from the 1960's as the stars of the housing industry, continue to maintain a strong foothold in the current housing "slump."

The biggest reason continues to be cost advantage, according to housing experts.

"The greater densities possible and the resultant land and construction economies make the townhome a practical solution to continuing demands for home ownership," declares Morton Silfen, vice president of sales for Hoffman Rosner Corporation of Hoffman Estates.

"Not only does the townhouse still give the buyer a chance to own his own home at less than the price of single-family homes, which are generally higher, the lower price makes it more possible to buy," Silfen points out.

He explained that buyers can get mortgages of up to $42,000 for 30 years at 8¼ per cent interest which, with a 5 per cent downpayment, can buy a townhome at close to $45,000. Many new townhomes being built in the Chicago area are in that price range.

Lower cost and easier financing are not the only attractions, nor always the most important, to the great variety of townhome buyers which includes single men and women, young couples with or without children, and older couples whose chidren no longer live at home.

To many buyers, especially young renters, the dollar benefits make a tremendous amount of sense. They want the equity and tax benefits of owning a home instead of a shoebox full of rent receipts.

Virtually maintenance-free living is a strong magnet to buyers of all ages in this increasingly leisure-oriented society, Silfen observes. "Freedom from maintaining a house and a yard means weekends free for relaxation or recreation. To older couples it also means being able to get away without worry if they enjoy traveling," Silfen noted.

Nearby recreation facilities, often a part of the community in which the townhomes are located, are another key feature of townhouse living.

Housing analysts observe that townhomes are more likely to become permanent residences than they might have been a generation ago, and builders like Hoffman Homes are recognizing the trend.

LeRonde leasing office opens

Leasing of the new LeRonde Office Plaza, 950 Lee Street, in downtown Des Plaines officially began with the recent opening of a leasing office, off the building's center-atrium, according to Ralph H. Martin, president of Wm. L. Kunkel & Co., Realtors, property managers and developers of the 30,000 square foot office complex.

The LeRonde Office Plaza earned the Architectural Award of 1974 for outstanding achievement, presented by the Des Plaines Association of Commerce and Industry.

Frank J. Kotnaur, Jr., marketing and leasing representative for Kunkel & Co. will staff the leasing office along with other representatives of Kunkel's commercial division. He will work under the supervision of Marvin M. Kingdon, director of the commercial division for the Kunkel Company.

Firms presently occupying the building are Erickson & Stevens, Inc., Architects for the building; The State Life Insurance Company of Indianapolis; The Bulk Petroleum Corporation, a Division of Gulf Oil Company; and the office of the building manned by Wm. L. Kunkel & Co., Agents. These represent in excess of 25 per cent of the office space available in the Plaza.

Meadow Edge opens in Rolling Meadows

Meadow Edge, a 60-acre, $13 million townhouse and single-family-home community in Rolling Meadows, officially opened Friday, Jan. 17, announced Edward Zale, president of Meadow Edge Co., the developers.

Meadow Edge, a joint venture of Zale Construction Company and First Savings Corp., a subsidiary of First Federal Savings & Loan Association of Chicago, is located in the Plum Grove section of the northwest suburb and will include 225 two-story townhomes, all with full basements, priced from $50,900 to $58,900. The 170 detached homes, which will be developed later, have not yet been priced.

During the first construction phase, the company is building 100 townhomes and the sophisticated $300,000 recreational complex on the Meadow Edge property. Phase II, consisting of 125 townhomes, will get underway in the summer of 1976, and Phase III, the single-family homes, is scheduled for the fall of 1976.

In addition to a super-sized sun deck and heated swimming pool, the recreational facilities will include a 4,000 square-foot California contemporary-designed clubhouse with resident lounge, dance floor, party room and fully-equipped kitchen. Long-term plans call for tennis courts and a large man-made lake. The developers estimate the monthly maintenance assessment will be about $40.

Already a picturesque piece of countryside, the Meadow Edge property is being further enhanced by the development of a network of hilly greenbelts, heavily planted with hundreds of trees and thousands of shrubs. The greenbelts, planned by landscape architects Steven F. Lund & Associates of Hoffman Estates, add privacy and visual variety to the development.

Meadow Edge offers five basic townhouse models including the Ashley, a two-story, three-bedroom, 1½-bath home with 1,529 square feet of living space, priced from $50,900; the Canterbury, a 1,633 square-foot home with three bedrooms and 2½ baths, priced from $53,500; the Dartmoor, a three-bedrooom, 2½-bath home, offering 1,603 square feet, from $54,900; the Kimberly, a 1,614 square-foot home with three bedrooms and 2½ baths, priced from $55,900; and the Newcastle, a three-bedroom, 2½-bath home with 1,780 square feet, priced from $58,900.

All prices include a fenced and landscaped entryway, an attached one-or two-car garage with special 4 foot by 8 foot bonus storage area, automatic electric door opener, a full-width paved driveway, full basement with laundry tub, patio area, central air conditioning, wall-to-wall shag carpeting, insulated patio doors with screens, underground utilities, storms and screens, gas forced-air heating, deluxe hardware and electric-eye outdoor lights which turn on automatically as the sun sets to illuminate the front yard and street.

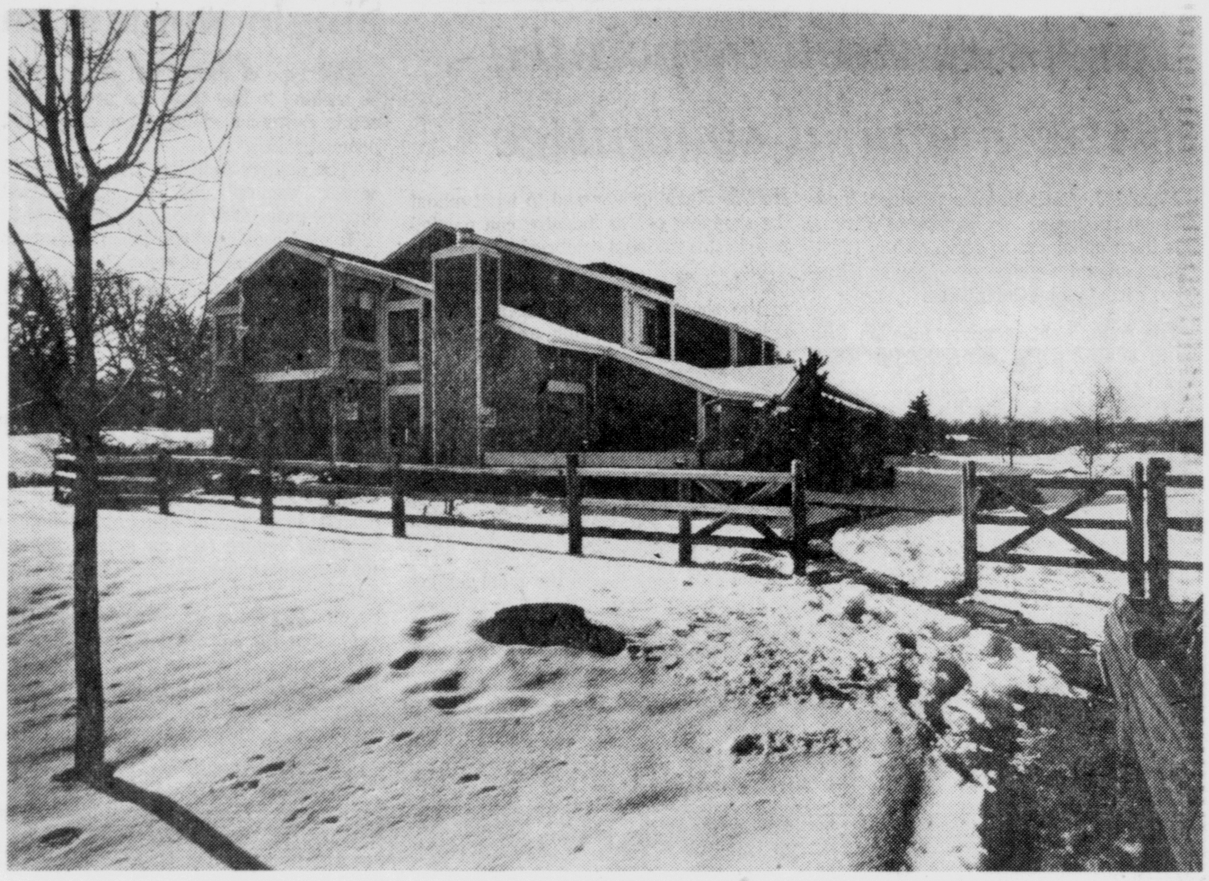
Meadow Edge kitchens include a continuous cleaning eye-level built-in gas range with double oven and Formica countertops in a choice of colors, solid oak cabinets, six-cycle Magic Chef dishwasher, garbage disposer, double stainless steel sink and vinyl asbestos floor tiling.

All Meadow Edge baths feature overhead globe lights, extra-large mirrors with Hollywood lighting, oval sinks with cultured marble vanity top, solid oak vanity cabinets, medicine cabinet with louvered doors and ceramic tub areas.

Optional features include one or more fireplaces with quarry tile hearths which can be located in the living room, family room or, in some cases, the master bedroom suite, sliding mirrored closet doors and parquet floors.

In addition, the Ashley features a dramatic foyer and, on the main floor, a powder room, guest closet, a 12 foot by 19 foot 6 inch living room, a 9 foot 2 inch by 10 foot dining area with sliding glass doors leadi g to the patio and a 7 foot 6 inch by 10 foot 6 inch kitchen with serving bar to the spacious 8 foot 4 inch by 9 foot family breakfast room with pantry. The second floor includes the 11 foot 9 inch by 15 foot 6 inch master bedroom suite with large walk-in closet and private entry to family bath, a 9 foot 6 inch by 10 foot family or sitting room and two secondary bedrooms.

THE OPEN floor plan of the Dartmoor, a 1,603 square-foot home priced from $53,900 illustrates the bright, cheerful interiors of the homes at Meadow Edge, located in Rolling Meadows. Architect for the development is the Berkus Group and the interior design was done by William A. Frosolone.



THE NEW $13 million Meadow Edge townhouse and single-family home community in Rolling Meadows is being developed by Meadow Edge Co., a joint venture of Zale Construction Co. and First Savings Corp.

The Canterbury has a two-story vaulted entry foyer with guest closet, 12 foot 4 inch by 17 foot sunken living room, 7 foot 6 inch by 10 foot formal dining area, 10 foot by 10 foot 4 inch kitchen and breakfast area, pantry, powder room, and the 10 foot 4 inch by 15 foot family room with sliding glass doors to the patio area. Upstairs is the 12 foot 4 inch by 16 foot 8 inch master bedroom suite with elegant double-door entry, double closets, private dressing area and bath, two secondary bedrooms, linen closet and the family bath.

The Dartmoor offers a dramatic raised entry foyer with powder room and guest closet and leads directly into the 12 foot 9 inch by 17 foot 6 inch sunken living room with a two-story cathedral ceiling. The second floor has the 12 feet by 16 feet 2 inches master bedroom suite with a sitting alcove, double closets and the private master bath. Also on the upper level is the family bath, the linen closet and two secondary bedrooms, one with double closets and a balcony overlooking the living room.

The Kimberly also offers a raised entry foyer with powder room and guest close, 12 feet 3 inches by 22 feet 6 inches sunken living room with sliding glass doors to the patio, a cozy 10 feet by 5 feet dining alcove, a 10 feet by 12 feet 4 inch kitchen and breakfast area with pantry and an 11 feet 4 inches by 16 feet family room with a soaring two-story ceiling and double doors to another patio area. On the second floor is the 12 feet 3 inches by 16 feet master bedroom suite with walk-in closet, private dressing area and separate bath, two secondary bedrooms, linen closet, family bath and a hallway balcony overlooking the family room.

The luxurious Newcastle includes a raised foyer with a dramatic two-story ceiling, guest closet and powder room, a spacious 12 feet by 21 feet sunken living room with sliding glass doors to the patio area, a 9 feet by 10 feet formal dining area, 10 feet by 10 feet 6 inches kitchen with pantry and breakfast area, and a 10 feet 6 inches by 15 feet 6 inches family room. Both the kitchen and family room feature sliding doors to yet another patio area. The second floor includes a hallway balcony overlooking the foyer, an 11 feet 6 inches by 20 feet master bedroom suite with tremendous 20 feet wall-length walk-in closet, private dressing area and bath, the family bath, linen closet and two secondary bedrooms with a walk-in closet and wall-long set of closets, respectively.

Architect for Meadow Edge is The Berkus Group of Rosemont; landscape architect, Steven F. Lund & Associates of Hoffman Estates; and interior model design, William A. Frosoline of Frosolone Interiors.

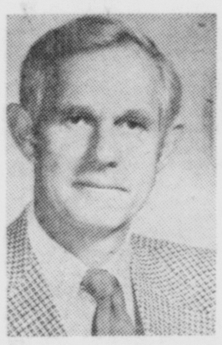
Harold Carlson appointed to Bicentennial committee

Harold J. Carlson, vice president and general manager of Randhurst Corp., has been appointed to serve on the ICSC (International Council of Shopping Centers) Bicentennial Committee.

The committee's primary function will be to advise, guide and assist the ICSC staff in planning how and to what extent the shopping center industry can participate in this national celebration.



Harold Carlson

Carlson, a member of ICSC, is active in the shopping center industry, having served as state director and currently serves as a trustee. Carlson carries the designation of CSM (Certified Shopping Center Manager).

Having earned the designation MAI in 1962, Carlson was recently elected president of Illinois Chapter No. 6 American Institute of Real Estate Appraisers. Carlson also is a designated CPM (Certified Property Manager).

Carlson's expertise in the management of Randhurst since 1965, led to two new regional shopping center assignments in 1973; management of Lincoln Mall, Matteson, and Northwoods, Peoria.

Carlson and his wife Marilyn reside in Hinsdale.

Single woman, married couples choose condominium apartments

What type of shelter will young adults be seeking to buy when the present economic downturn changes course — and heads upward?

"The answer indicates that the single career women and young married couples categories are in a virtual tie in their choice of condominium apartments as a number one preference."

So observes Marshall C. Dennison, president and chief executive officer of Associated Mortgage Companies, Inc., Philadelphia-based national real estate financing and servicing organization.

He points out that in a random sampling, "two-thirds of all prospective home purchasers among young unmarried working women and newlyweds chose condo ownership."

Their reasons for being attracted to the condominium life style differed, however.

"The single working women reported that condo units in an attractive building offer convenient and comfortable living, without the headaches of maintenance, repair and lawn care problems.

"Young marrieds, on the other hand, saw them as a place to start building for the future — a first home establishing a good, sound familial foothold."

Both groups cited spiraling rental costs as a major factor in their choice for the future.

"A condominium purchase represents an important investment vehicle to the career women and a viable alternative to monthly rent payments.

"They also consider it their 'security blanket' for the later years when those pay checks stop coming in," Dennison states.

This point of view contrasted with the married couples' who looked upon buying a condo dwelling in the future as a short-range investment — one they could sell at a profit and apply to their next home purchase.

"In some cases, social considerations were cited as a dominant reason — particularly by working women.

"Twenty-three per cent of the women queried said they thought condominium communities would offer them better opportunities to meet and make new friends."

The young couples said that the "package" of amenities offered in condo living — recreational and social meeting places — would influence them to buy.

"No matter the motivation — it certainly appears that there will be burgeoning ranks of young-adult owners of condominium units when economic skies turn from gray to blue," Dennison concludes.

Northern Screw Co. moves

Bennett & Kahnweiler Associates announced the leasing of the one story industrial building containing approximately 60,000 square feet on a land site of 100,000 square feet located at 951 Fargo Avenue, Elk Grove Village, to Northern Screw Co. This move represents a major expansion for Northern Screw Co., who will use the facility to triple its production capability to satisfy record demand for its product.

Edward A. Rowe and James H. Dana of Bennett & Kahnweiler Associates represented both lessor and lessee in the $1-million lease transaction. The building was designed by Robert L. Friedman of Robert L. Friedman & Associates. Ockerlund Construction Company was the general contractor. Dewey S. Suster of Ettelson, O'Hagan, Ehrlich & Frankel was the attorney for the lessor and William H. Pokorny of Schiff, Hardin & Waite was the attorney for Northern Screw Co.

'Multiplex' offers new way to live

"Multiplex" is not the name of a new vitamin capsule.

"It is, rather, a term describing a multiple family dwelling — a term that may well become the 'in' word of the '70s — prompted by brisk demand for housing."

So predicts Jackson W. Goss, president and chief executive officer of Investors Mortgage Insurance Company, Boston, a leading organization in the private mortgage insurance industry.

He notes a growing trend to convert older, larger houses into three-, four-and five-(or more) individual family dwellings. The result: a livable, comfortable variation on the housing theme — a new multi-unit shelter style.

"Owners of big houses today are frequently faced with rising maintenance costs, but they are reluctant to part with their homesteads. Dividing the property into separate units is one increasingly popular solution.

"Not only are the owners able to remain in their family home and simultaneously cut costs — they can also provide much-needed housing for other families," Goss points out.

Are such conversion efforts successful?

"Decidedly so," he stresses. "An otherwise cumbersome, difficult-to-maintain residence can quickly turn into an income-producing vehicle.

"Many owners completely redecorate the interior, making the home into a duplex. Then, they simply sell one-half — live in the other."

Another conversion pattern is to turn the home into four or five distinct units — in effect, a four-or five-plex condominium.

Goss observes that this trend is impacting older sections of major cities where turn-of-the-century mansions and townhouses are ideally suited for multiplex living.

"Younger people seeking near-to-the-job residences are in the vanguard of those seeking converted multi-unit in-town houses.

"The multiplex — truly a pleasing addition to the nation's housing profile," Goss concludes.

Uncle Sam and MONY have a great idea for people with no pension plan.

Recently enacted U.S. Government legislation has made possible generous tax benefits for people with no pension plan.

Under the Pension Reform Act, you can contribute annually up to 15% of your earnings—not to exceed $1500—to a pension plan. You can deduct the entire amount from your taxable income for the year and pay no current income taxes on it whatsoever. In fact, you pay no taxes on it until retirement when, most likely, you will be earning less and in a far lower tax bracket. What's more, the money contributed draws interest and increases rapidly in your retirement fund. And you pay no taxes on the interest, either, until retirement.

Through MONY, I have long specialized in pension plans. If you are not participating in a pension plan, I can show you how to get one of your own quickly and easily—while you save on taxes. Just fill in the coupon below.

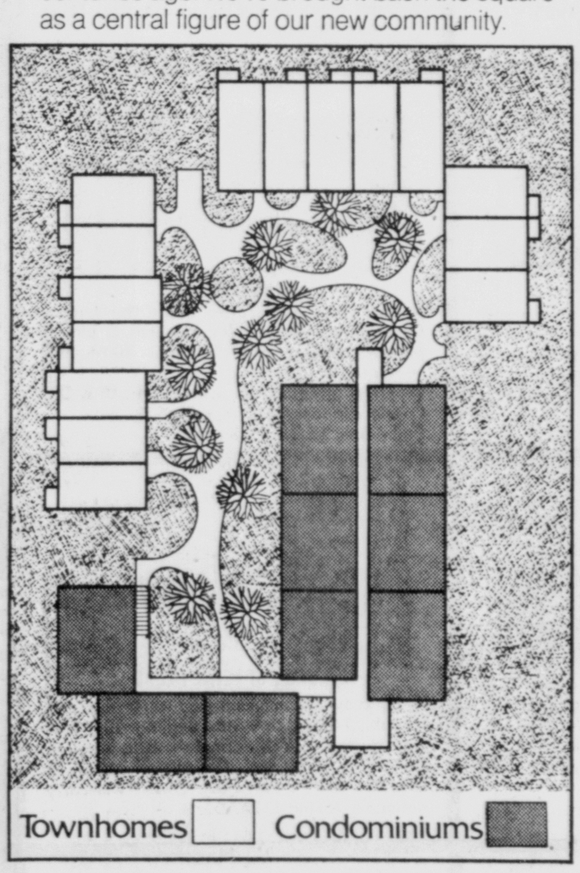
Preview Arlington Square and find yourself a place in history.

Arlington Square is based on a concept of living so old it's brand new. The townhomes and condominiums here are arranged in open squares around splendidly-landscaped courtyards. It's a pattern of community living that began with the Roman forum centuries ago. We've brought back the square as a central figure of our new community.



Each cluster of homes surrounds an open area of trees and grass, creating a unique kind of neighborhood atmosphere.

A solid plan for luxury. Inside your home you experience the total quiet afforded by outer walls of masonry 12 inches thick. You enjoy the comforts of wall-to-wall carpeting throughout and individually-controlled heating and air conditioning. Your home includes range and oven, dishwasher and waste disposer. There's added luxury in ceramic-tiled baths with marble vanity tops.

Recreation in the grand manner. From your private terrace or balcony you can enjoy the natural beauty of the courtyard. And beyond your living square lies a beautiful landscape that's permanently and professionally maintained. At the clubhouse there are game and exercise rooms, saunas and a lounge for relaxing. For outdoor recreation there are tennis courts, a pool, a private lake and acres of walkways and bicycle paths.

Visit our furnished models today.

Arlington Square is located on Rand Road (Route 12) at Route 53. Sales center open daily 11-6. Weekends 11-7. Phone: 259-6550.

Frozen-wage pact settlement a boon to area building?

A recent contract settlement for the Chicago-area construction laborers union that does not include an increase in hourly wage rates may result in more building activity and more employment in the area.

Joseph Spignola, president of the laborers union, said he hopes the settlement will prompt renewed construction by area builders.

Robert E. Nielsen, acting chairman of the Mid-America Regional Bargaining Assn., said, "We're awfully impressed by the settlement." He said the agreement could bolster employment during a period when the outlook for construction work is "not good."

The new one-year contract signed Jan. 9 by leaders of Laborers District Council of Chicago and Vicinity and Nielsen's bargaining group will not raise hourly wages above the current $7.20-an-hour wage rate. Some 15,000 to 30,000 laborers in Cook, Lake, DuPage, Will, Grundy, Kendall, Kane, McHenry and Boone counties are covered by the agreement. A 25-cents-an-hour increase in employer contributions to pension funds is included in the contract.

There are hopeful indicators that the construction employment outlook may improve, said Thomas Nayder, secretary treasurer of the Chicago and Cook County Building and Construction Trades Council. Improved supplies of building materials, savings inflows at Chicago area savings and loan associations and the prospect of incrrased public works spending by state and federal governments could boost the demand for construction labor, Nayder said.

Real estate facts

by Virgil E. Grand

President, Northwest Suburban Board of Realtors®

Why are 95 per cent of all residential sales in the average U.S. city accomplished with the aid of a real estate firm? Why shouldn't you attempt to sell your home yourself and avoid paying some selling costs?

There are many reasons why you need professional help. Here are some reasons you've probably considered — and others you may never have thought of — for consulting a Realtor.

Real estate is a full-time business for a Realtor. He or she frequently has ready buyers for your property, and can secure the best price for you from many pospective customers.

When your property is priced right for the market, you can expect fast action and full value. A Realtor knows market value.

Many Realtors provide referral services between cities, and understand the complexities of selling property in one city and buying in another. They will attempt to synchronize your buy-and-sell transactions.

Where to seek money for mortgages, secondary financing, FHA or VA loans — and how to obtain the best financing possible — are in the Realtors stockpile of information. He also knows real estate tax laws, so he will structure your transaction to obtain the most advantageous tax position for you.

If you attempt to sell your home yourself, the buyer will have the advantage. He can sit back and make you come to him. After all, he's buying — you're selling. You have one property to sell — he has hundreds to choose from. He has compared many homes and is often fairly experienced.

The buyer realizes you are not protected by professional knowledge. And, knowing that you hope to save the real estate firm's fee, he can estimate a bargain price, subtract a fee, and give you a fast verbal offer. If you accept his offer, he sets the terms of the sale.

Here are additional reasons why "do-it-yourself" isn't a good policy when you're selling a home. That sign in the front yard may as well say "curiosity seekers welcome" because the seller will find himself answering the doorbell for lookers who have no intention of buying. The Realtor, on the other hand, screens lookers from qualified buyers and sets up appointments to view the home, thus saving the seller a good deal of time and trouble.

Easy access to the home also can be an invitation to a burglar. Under the guise of being a buyer, he can go through the home room by room, casing it for a late-night return visit.

Selling your home yourself may mean you'll avoid paying some selling costs, says San Diego Realtor Art S. Leitch, president-elect of the National Association of Realtors. But one way or another you must go through all the steps that would be taken by the real estate firm.

"Those who suggest that an attorney's fee of $200 or $300 is an attractive alternative to the broker's fee aren't making a valid comparison," Leitch says, "unless the attorney will perform all the functions of a Realtor."

Centex lot sold

Bennett & Kahnweiler Associates reports the sale of a 22,000 square feet site located in Centex Industrial Park, Elk Grove Village. C & G Associates, the purchaser, intends to construct a one story 10,000 square foot building on the site.

Vernon Schultz of Bennett & Kahnweiler Associates was sole broker in the transaction. Attorney for the buyer was Philip Weirauch. Pritzker & Pritzker represented the seller.

Federal Reserve increases money supply

Banks cut 'prime' to spur business

United Press International

The Federal Reserve Board's attempt to engage in slight pump-priming of its own has resulted in lower bank interest rates to encourage corporations to borrow money for expansion and creation of new jobs.

But a banking economist said there has been only slight growth in the nation's money supply.

First National City Bank of New York, the nation's second largest and trend-setter on interest rates, lowered is prime rate to 9.75 per cent from 10 per cent, the first time since last April its rate has been below 10 per cent.

SEVERAL OTHER major banks made similar cuts to either 9.75 per cent or 10 per cent, and one Detroit bank, Michigan National, lowered its to 9 per cent.

The lower business loan rates came in response to action by the Federal Reserve, the government's banker, to relax its hold on government funds to make millions of dollars available through the commercial banking system.

The lower prime interest rates, a traditional tool to fight business slumps, came a day after a key Commerce Department economic barometer, the Gross National Product, indicated the nation was in the sharpest recessionary decline since after World War II.

Irwin Kellner, economist at Manufacturers Hanover Bank in New York, said the Federal Reserve's clear intent is to increse the money supply and lower commercial interest rates to prevent the "recession from worsening significantly."

But, Kellner said, because of the sharp economic downturn the nation's money growth is only about 4 per cent, "below the presumed target of the Fed which is said to be 6 or 7 per cent growth."

AMONG OTHER major economic developments, White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said President Ford plans to "get out and explain his program" for economic recovery to the people in a series of appearances across the nation later this month.

As Ford conferred with advisers on formation of a new energy research and development administration, there was increased congressional criticism of his plan to raise $30 billion through higher oil prices and taxes. Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., denounced it as inflationary, recessionary and inequitable.

In other developments:

• The International Monetary Fund, meeting in Washington, agreed to abolish the official $42.22 an ounce price of gold, a move aimed at ending its key role in the world monetary system. It would mean official gold holdings of the 26 IMF nations could rise to the open market price at more than $170 an ounce.

• The Civil Aeronautics Board approved an American Airlines proposal for fare discounts up to 25 per cent on day coach excursion flights longer than 1,500 miles. But the CAB rejected similar discounts proposed by three other airlines because they wanted exceptions for certain days and times.

Edward Wells

Wells named manager for Jewel Stores

Edward A. Wells, 1324 W. Norwell Ct., Schaumburg, has been named executive vice president and general manager for Chicagoland Jewel Food Stores.

He joined Jewel in 1951 as a part-time clerk and has held such supervisory positions as division operations assistant, division sales manager, sales operations manager, vice president of grocery operations and most recently group vice president and general manager of the Established Zone.

Wells, an Illi ois native, graduated from Schurz High School, Chicago; attended Wright Junior College; majored in accounting at DePaul University, where he received a bachelor's degree, and majored in food distribution at Michigan State University, where he received a master's degree. Wells has also furthered his education in assorted American Marketing Assn. and industry programs, and in the University of Chicago's supervisory program.

Pelaspan-Pac plant opens

A new Pelaspan-Pac plant to serve the Chicago area was opened on December 16 by General Box Company, a division of Southwest Forest Industries, according to an announcement today by W. L. Crane, general manager.

Located at 2628 Delta Lane in Elk Grove Village in the heart of a large industrial park complex, the new 8,550 square foot plant will be utilized for both manufacturing and office facilities.

Thomas Chodl is sales manager of the new activity.

'Inflation fighters' visit Countryside

Increasing numbers of "inflation fighters" are visiting new condominium apartments at Countryside, the hundred-acre planned unit development in northwest-suburban Palatine.

"And they're serious prospects to purchase one-or two-bedroom units," said John Smolenski, vice president of sales and marketing for L. F. Draper and Associates, Countryside developer. Countryside condominiums sell in the $28,500-$39,500 price range.

Smolenski defined "inflation fighters" as people with equities in present houses that are larger than they need, because children have grown and left home or there have been other changes in family status.

"Many of them are tired of inflated costs of heating and other increasing expenes of maintaining rooms that no longer are used," Smolenski said.

"Prospects have told us that they'd planned to place present residences on the market in a year or two or three. Several factors have combined to hasten their decisions to sell: Escalating energy costs. Enough activity in the suburban re-sale housing market to provide an excellent opportunity for them to cash in their equities. And, at least in the case of Countryside, immediately available homes more in tune with their present needs for living space."

Most buyers of Countryside condominiums to date have been 40 or older, and have come from Palatine or nearby suburbs, Smolenski said.

"Excellent prospect traffic during the holidays and into the new year indicates this buyer pattern will continue," he added.

Condominiums, which went on sale last fall, are the last phase of construction in the planned community. Rental apartments in the development have been completed, as have an enclosed mall shopping center, restaurant, office building, child-care center and recreation facilities.

"All of a family's needs can be met within walking distance of home," Smolenski pointed out.

Condominium construction is consistent with Countryside's earlier phases. Apartment homes are in two-story brick and timber buildings that blend into the gently rolling, landscaped environment.

Four floorplans are offered, from a one-bedroom condominum having 967 square feet of living space to the largest two-bedroom model, with 1,212 square feet. All apartments open via sliding glass doors to patio areas or private balconies. A full package of kitchen appliances is included in the purchase price, as are air conditioning, carpeting and other amenities. Covered parking is available.

Arrangements have been made for buyers to move in prior to closing of their purchase transactions, after having obtained mortgage commitments. Payments made prior to closing are credited against eventual down payments, Smolenski said.

"Thus, except for the time needed to custom-finish each apartment according to buyer desires, units are immediately available," he said.

Countryside is on the Northwest Hwy. (U.S. 14) about two miles west of the Palatine business district. Furnished condominium models, on Sterling Drive in the community, 6/10ths of a mle north of the main entrance, are open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. every day.

Northwest Federal Savings establishes growth record

North West Federal Savings, with a branch in Des Plaines, established record growth marks during 1974.

John D. Reed, president, reports that assets reached an all-time high of over $350 million and savings topped $285.4 million as of December 31, 1974. These totals reflect growth of $62.? million in assets and $51.8 million in savings capital for the year. This compares to an average annual growth rate over the past five years of $41.3 million in assets and $34.1 million in savings.

A record high of $15.4 million in savings interest was paid savers in 1974. Reserves reached a high of $16.3 million on December 31. According to Reed, 28,773 new savings accounts were started in 1974, making a total of 77,040 savers at North West Federal Savings.

Reed also explained, "despite exceptionally tight money conditions in 1974, continuing strong savings inflow has enabled North West Federal Savings to add $51.9 million in mortgage loans to its 1974 loan portfolio. Currently, North West Federal's loan portfolio includes over 12,471 home loans with a value of $310.6 million."

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE – Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Dow up 10.71 to 652.61

Stocks overcome early skid, rise sharply on big volume

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market, overcoming early uncertainties about economic legislation, rallied late Wednesday to register a sharp gain in moderately active trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones industrial average, off more than four points at the outset, gained 10.71 at 652.61. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index rose 1.04 to 71.74. The average price of an NYSE common share increased by 29 cents. Advances topped declines, 800 to 550, among the 1,767 issues crossing the tape.

Volume totaled 15,330,000 shares, up from the 14,780,000 traded Tuesday.

ANALYSTS SAID the market picked up steam when it appeared the Ford administration would push hard for its proposed tax rebates and might be willing to compromise on its energy proposals.

Treasury Sec. William Simon, whose prediction of continued inflation touched off some early selling, appeared to give the market a boost when he urged quick congressional passage of President Ford's tax rebate plans.

At the same time, Frank Zarb, Federal Energy Administration head, said the Ford administration still opposed gasoline rationing, but would be willing to make a few compromises.

Prices closed higher in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange. The average price of an Amex share increased 8 cents. Volume totaled 1,820,000 shares, compared with 1,490,000 traded Tuesday.

IN AMERICAN STOCK Exchange options trading, 4,438 contracts were traded, compared with 4,901 traded Tuesday. Walt Disney April 30 led the activities, up 7/8 to 2 5/8 on 358 contracts. Burroughs April 70 followed, up 7/8 to 2 7/8 on 235 contracts. Walt Disney April 25 was third, up 1 5/8 to 5 1/8 on 230 contracts.

On the Chicago Board Options Exchange, 37,463 contracts were traded, compared with 37,060 Tuesday. IBM January 160 led the actives, up 1 5/8 to 3¾. Xerox January 60 followed, up ¾ to 15-16. McDonald's January 30 was third, up 1/8 to 1/2.

Resolved:

To eat better in 1975

The beginning of a new year is a good time to consider making some resolutions to improve your family's diet. Many nutritionists agree that Americans are overfed but undernourished. Our diets contain many "empty calories" — foods that offer little nutritive value.

Another major dietary concern involves heart disease. Doctors generally recommend diet changes to help reduce the risk of this disease. Most Americans eat too much food rich in saturated fat and cholesterol, such as beef, eggs and whole milk dairy products. Instead we should eat more poultry, fish and fresh fruits and vegetables. Where fat is needed a polyunsaturated margarine or oil is recommended.

Sensible changes in eating habits are easily accomplished and will benefit the entire family. Low in saturated fats, poultry and fish can be prepared in a variety of ways and are often better buys than most red meats.

Here are just a couple of tempting ideas to get you started on a fat-controlled diet: Try Sherry Orange Chicken, a truly delectable dish packed with important nutrients. For a delicious change-of pace, serve a hearty chicken soup for supper. Accented with a touch of curry, Mulligatawny Soup makes a satisfying meal served with a salad and enriched bread or rolls.

Fish will become a favorite on your dinner table when you serve Flounder Florentine. A taste-tempting sight, these spinach-stuffed fillets are blanketed in a rich, flavorful sauce.

Happily, desserts need not be forgotten if you are watching cholesterol. Just remember to avoid ice cream, whipped cream and pastries made with butter and egg yolks. Apple Cranberry Crisp is big on flavor, yet low in cholesterol.

Note: For a fat-controlled diet, the margarine used in these recipes should be labeled polyunsaturated. Read the label before selecting a brand. The product that is high in polyunsaturates lists a recommended liquid vegetable oil (safflower, soybean, corn, cottonseed, or sesame seed) as the first ingredient, followed by one or more partially hydrogenated vegetable oils. If the first ingredient on the list is liquid oil you may use the margarine. Some hydrogenation is necessary to give margarine its hardened consistency. Too much hydrogenation reduces the polyunsaturated nature of the product, transforming it into a saturated one.

Sherry-Orange Chicken

- ¼ cup (½ stick) margarine
- 3 whole chicken breasts, split
- 1 medium onion, sliced
- ½ cup diced green pepper
- 1 tablespoon unsifted flour
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- 1 cup orange juice
- ¼ cup dry sherry
- 1 tablespoon firmly packed brown sugar
- 1 teaspoon grated orange peel
- Orange slices
- Parsley sprigs
- Hot cooked rice

Melt margarine in a large skillet. Brown chicken and remove to a shallow 2-quart baking dish. Add onion and green pepper to remaining margarine and saute about 2 minutes. Blend in flour, salt and pepper. Gradually blend in orange juice and sherry, stirring until smooth. Stir in brown sugar and orange peel; bring mixture to a boil. Pour sherry-orange sauce over chicken and bake at 375 degrees 45 minutes or until chicken is done. Baste chicken with sauce occasionally while baking. Garnish with orange slices and parsley sprigs. Serve with hot rice. Makes 6 servings.

Mulligatawny Soup

- 3 tablespoons margarine
- ½ cup diced carrots
- ½ cup sliced celery
- ½ cup diced green pepper
- ⅓ cup chopped onion
- 1 large green apple, pared, cored and cut into ½-inch cubes
- 4 cups chicken broth
- ¼ cup unsifted flour
- 1 cup canned whole tomatoes, crushed
- 1 teaspoon curry powder
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper
- 2 cups cubed cooked chicken

Melt margarine in a Dutch oven or large heavy saucepan. Add carrots, celery, green pepper, onion and apple; saute until tender but not browned.

Stir ½ cup chicken broth into the flour to make a smooth liquid; then add to sauteed vegetables, stirring constantly to blend. Stir in remaining chicken broth, tomatoes, curry powder, salt and pepper. Bring to a boil, reduce heat, cover and let simmer for 50 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add cubed chicken and simmer 10 minutes longer. Makes 7 (1 cup) servings.

Flounder Florentine

- 6 tablespoons margarine
- ¼ cup minced onion
- 1 package (10-ounce) frozen chopped spinach, cooked and well drained
- ¾ teaspoon marjoram leaves
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- 2 pounds (6 fillets) fillet of flounder
- ½ cup dry white wine
- 3 tablespoons unsifted flour
- ½ teaspoon dry mustard
- 1 cup skim milk
- Paprika
- Watercress

Melt 3 tablespoons margarine in skillet; add onion and saute until tender. Stir in spinach, marjoram, ¼ teaspoon salt and ⅛ teaspoon pepper. Divide spinach mixture evenly allowing about 1½ tablespoons for each fillet. Spread over fillets then roll up and place, seam side down, in a shallow baking dish. Add wine, cover and bake at 350 degrees 25 minutes or until fish is done. Drain and reserve ½ cup liquid. Keep fish warm.

Melt remaining 3 tablespoons margarine in a saucepan. Blend in flour, remaining ¼ teaspoon salt, remaining ⅛ teaspoon pepper and dry mustard until smooth. Gradually stir in reserved liquid from fish and skim milk. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until sauce thickens and boils. Cook one minute longer, stirring constantly. Serve stuffed fish turbons topped with sauce. Garnish with paprika and watercress. Makes 6 servings.

Busy mother teams ease with flavor

by LOIS SEILER

Recipes that are fast and easy yet full of flavor are favorites of Jacque Sqain, Wheeling.

The mother of two little tots, Melynda, 2, and Margie, 13 months, Jacque candidly admits that she doesn't like to spend hours in the kitchen. Yet she enjoys tasty food, and cooks for a sizeable family which includes her mother and two sisters.

Many of her mother's recipes have become Jacque's specialties. One is Tuna Burgers, a mixture of tuna fish, Cheddar cheese, hard-cooked eggs, dry onion soup mix and mayonnaise heaped onto hamburger buns. Wrapped in foil, they can be made ahead and heated before serving. Accompanied by a salad and potato chips, they are ideal for a quick lunch, supper, or late evening snack, according to Jacque.

Years ago when her daughters were young and involved in Scouts and Brownies, Jacque's mother devised a recipe called Girl Scout Stew. "She was ingenious about giving recipes intriguing names to make them more palatable," Jacque said.

The stew consists of browned ground beef, vegetable soup, tomato paste and dry onion soup mix simmered together then baked with a topping of corn muffin mix. This hearty meal-in-one, can be expanded easily for a larger family.

JACQUE CONCOCTED her own quick chili recipe, and contributes its success to the use of canned kidney bean salad. "The salad has all the necessary ingredients in it, including celery, green pepper and onions," she said. "They are much tastier than ordinary canned kidney beans and save time in preparation."

She mixes the salad with browned ground beef, stewed tomatoes and tomato paste. Dry onion soup mix, oregano, garlic salt and onion salt contribute additional flavor.

"If you're in a hurry, the chili need only be cooked for 45 minutes, but longer cooking will produce more flavor," Jacque explained.

She often serves this with flour tortillas, spooning some chili onto the tortillas and rolling them up to form little burritoes. They make a tasty Mexican dish without hot spices, Jacque commented.

Dry onion soup mix figures prominently into all these recipes, as well as Jacque's savory pot roast. She revised one of Dr. Atkin's diet recipes, baking a pot roast in foil with onion soup mix, instant beef soup and garlic salt. The meat becomes tender, moist and juicy, and if wrapped tightly enough, there will be enough juice to make a gravy, if desired. She serves the meat with mashed or baked potatoes and a vegetable. Rice can be served instead of potatoes.

These time-saving recipes are all high in flavor but allow Jacque an opportunity to pursue her other interests which include crocheting and ceramics.

TUNA BURGERS

1 7-ounce can tuna fish, drained
3 slices Cheddar cheese, diced
3 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
½ package dry onion soup mix
Mayonnaise
Garlic salt (optional)
Onion Salt (optional)
4 to 5 hamburger buns

Combine tuna, cheese, eggs and onion soup mix. Add enough mayonnaise to mix ingredients together, at least 2 tablespoons or more. Stir in seasonings to taste.

Spread mixture on hamburger buns and wrap in foil. Heat in a 350 degree oven for 20 minutes.

GIRL SCOUT STEW

1 pound ground beef
1 can (10¾-oz.) vegetable soup
1 small (6-oz.) can tomato paste
½ package dry onion soup mix
Onion salt
Garlic salt
1 package Jiffy brand corn muffin mix

Brown beef; add remaining ingredients and simmer, covered, 45 minutes. If mixture becomes too dry during cooking, add water. Turn into a 1½-quart baking dish.

Prepare corn muffin mix according to package directions. Spread batter over stew. Bake in a 400 degree oven 15 to 20 minutes, until cornbread is done. Serve immediately. Serves 4 to 5.

For a larger family, this recipe may be expanded by adding another pound of beef and can of soup. The other quantities remain the same.

CHILI

1½ to 2 pounds ground beef
2 cans (15½ oz.) kidney bean salad (Reed brand)
1 can (1-lb.) stewed tomatoes plus juice
1 can (6-oz.) tomato paste
1 tomato paste can of water
½ package dry onion soup mix
½ teaspoon oregano
Garlic salt
Onion salt

Brown ground beef; add remaining ingredients and season to taste. Simmer, covered, for 45 minutes to two hours. Longer simmering makes better flavor. Serves 6.

To make burritoes, heat flour tortillas in a frying pan. Toss to brown on both sides. Place a heaping tablespoon of chili on each tortilla and roll up, tucking in one end as you roll. More chili may be spooned into the open end, if desired.

POT ROAST

1 chuck roast or pot roast
1 package dry onion soup mix
2 envelopes beef Cup of Soup
Garlic salt

Line a pan with foil, using enough to wrap roast. Sprinkle ½ package dry onion soup mix on the foil, 1 envelope cup of soup and some garlic salt. Place meat on these ingredients. Sprinkle remaining ingredients over the top. Wrap meat tightly in the foil. Bake at 300 degrees for three hours. Gravy may be made from any meat juices, if desired.

Speedy dinner with a ham slice

You can quickly satisfy family appetites by selecting a lean, pink smoked ham slice next time you shop. Yielding more servings per pound than chicken or many less waste-free meat cuts, a flavor-packed ham slice can be used to stretch the dinner dollar. It lends delicious flavor to whatever food is combined with it.

Suitable for cooking in frying-pan, broiler or oven, a versatile ham slice offers opportunity for many compatible food partnerships. For a savory dinner that's a snap to prepare, bake a slice atop rice and peas combined in a savory sauce.

DIXIE HAM SLICE

1 smoked ham slice, cut ½ to ¾ inch thick
3 cups cooked rice
1 can (10½ ounces) cream of celery soup
2 tablespoons chopped onion
1 teaspoon dry mustard
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup milk
1 package (10 ounces) frozen peas, cooked and drained

Combine rice, soup, onion, dry mustard and salt. Stir in milk and fold in peas; place in greased 9-inch square baking dish. Place ham slice on top of rice mixture, cover tightly and bake in slow oven (325 degrees) 20 minutes. Remove cover and bake 10 to 15 minutes. 5 to 6 servings.

Time for turnips

Turnips have been with us a long time. They were cultivated in Virginia as long ago as 1609 and in Massachusetts since 1629. There were plenty around Philadelphia in the beginning of the 18th century. Unfortunately many people overcook turnips. When boiling them, leave the pot uncovered, and stop the cooking as soon as they are tender, around 20 to 30 minutes. Turnips differ in shape and skin color but different varieties have much the same flavor. Most turnips are white-fleshed. They should be smooth, firm with few leaf scars around the crown or fibrous roots at the base.

Food costs, health prime concerns

by PATRICIA McCORMACK

Special occasion feasts on the homefront in 1975 will be good times to help the hearts of your family and myabe lower the grocery bill — all through one strategy.

This is the 1975 health tip from Dr. John P. McCann, chairman of Life Extension Institute, New York, America's oldest preventive medicine clinic.

In an interview Dr. McCann noted that everyone is concerned about high food costs. And there is concern over health, too.

Soaring costs strain the pocketbook of almost every family planning any kind of holiday or special occasion meal.

One food that's costly is ham, Dr. McCann noted. "This food," he said, "can cause a big bite in your grocery bill and is among those that may help keep spouse's blood cholesterol levels at their highest."

Dr. McCann said most physicians are in agreement that high blood cholesterol levels contribute to heart and blood vessel diseases.

The roll of blood fats in the development of arteriosclerosis, particularly among middle-aged men, who are the primary family breadwinners, is known.

Coronary artery disease is the most destructive chronic ailment in the United States. Deaths from heart disease in the past 40 years have increased 4,000 per cent!

"Deaths from coronary heart disease have now assumed epidemic proportions," the preventive medicine specialist said, "even though the disease is not communicable."

"Our knowledge of the cause and development of 'heart attacks' has expanded to the point that we know a high level of blood fats cholesterol and — or triglycerides is a major contributing factor along with cigarette smoking, heredity, age, sex, high blood pressure, stress, overweight and lack of exercise.

"Heredity, age and sex cannot be altered but intake of fats can."

Dr. McCann reminds homemakers the dinner table is one of the first places to begin control of these fats that are formed on the lining of the blood pipeline system.

What foods are the culprits at the festive-day groaning board? Dr. McCann said saturated animal fats and cholesterol are found in beef, lamb, pork and ham, milk, cheese, butter and eggs — foods which tend to be among the most expensive.

Recommended is turkey, currently lower in price than a year ago. Fish, chicken and veal also are suggested. Shellfish such as clams, crab, lobster and shrimp are low in fat but high in cholesterol.

Legumes, whole grains, dried fruit and nuts are nutritious foods and they are frequently lower in price.

This does not mean that families should abandon the festivity and joy of sitting down to holiday fare.

Rather, he pleads for eating fewer saturated fats at holiday times — meat, butter, lard and coconut oil.

At the same time he pleads for eating more polyunsaturated fats — corn oil, cottonseed, safflower, soybean oil.

The latter tend to lower cholesterol levels, incidentally, and retard hardening of the arteries, which can lead to heart attacks and strokes.

With moderate changes, the festive dinner celebration all through 1975 can be observed with recipes that are heart savers — and budget slicers.

Furthermore, they can be appetizing — and appeal to everyone gathered for the family event.

The New York Heart Association recommends an eye-appealing, money-saving turkey dinner with all the life-saving inducements of good health, and budgeting. The suggested menu includes:

Cranberry frappe, basic vegetable salad aspic, roast turkey with dressing, gravy, mashed yellow turnips and potatoes, pumpkin chiffon pie — made with vegetable oil and skim milk.

One final suggestion from Dr. McCann: "Don't just try to make the festive meals the lifesaving kind.

"Why not make a resolution to eat sensibly all the time." P.S. —the turkey is prepared with polyunsaturated oil and polyunsaturated margarine. Before making gravy, chill the meat juices so the fat forms a cake on the surface. Remove the cake of fat and, to make the gravy, add water from cooked vegetables or water mixed with a bouillon cube or meat extract.

Chicken dish uses leftovers

An inexpensive and complete one-dish meal combines diced cooked chicken, an herb-seasoned stuffing mix and mushroom soup. This is an ideal way to use that leftover chicken. Serve with a fruit salad and buttermilk biscuits.

CHICKEN AND DRESSING BAKE

- 2½ cups diced cooked chicken
- 1 package (8 ounces) herb-seasoned stuffing mix
- 2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
- 1 can (10¾ ounces) condensed cream of mushroom soup
- 2 cups chicken broth
- 2 eggs, well beaten
- ½ cup milk
- 2 tablespoons chopped pimiento

Toss stuffing mix with onion, one-half can of the soup, chicken broth and beaten eggs. Spread mixture in oblong baking pan. Top with chicken. Mix remaining soup with milk and pimiento; pour over chicken and dressing. Cover pan with foil. Bake at 350 degrees for 45 minutes or until set. Makes 6 to 8 servings. (Cost per serving for 6 is 44 cents; for 8 it is 33 cents.)

Nutritional recipe ideas from vegetarian cookbook

Mostly for men
by Charles Flynn

Understandably my birthday presents usually turn out to be cookbooks. The most recent addition is an interesting volume "The Vegetarian Epicure" by Anna Thomas (Vintage Books, 1972).

This is an attractively illustrated book of advice, menus and recipes for serving nutritional meals without the use of meats or fish. I agree heartily with the author's view that "feeding people graciously and lovingly is one of life's simplest pleasures; a most basic way of making life better for someone . . ."

This recipe for Savory Cheese and Onion Pie is different and I think you'll like it. Prepare basic shortcrust pastry for a 10-inch pie pan. Line the pan or dish and chill it. Grate 5 ounces Swiss and 5 ounces Gruyere cheese and toss it with 2 tablespoons flour.

Melt 4 tablespoons butter in a large skillet and slice into it 2 large onions. Saute very gently until onions turn golden.

Remove pie dish from refrigerator and spread about 1/3 of the cheese over the bottom. Now spread the sauted onions over. In the butter left in the skillet heat slices of 2 large tomatoes and sprinkle them with 1 teaspoon chopped sweet basil. This will take about two minutes. Arrange the tomato slices over the onions in the pie shell and cover with remaining cheese.

Beat 2 large eggs with ¾ cup cream and pour over the cheese. Sprinkle with a little nutmeg, if you like it, and bake pie in a preheated 350 degree oven for 35 to 40 minutes. The top should brown nicely. Serve this hot in wedges to six as a main course, or cut in smaller pieces for an hors d'ouevre.

YOU'LL ALSO enjoy this version of the Spanish salad, Gazpacho. Make a vinaigrette dressing by combining ½ cup olive (or salad) oil, ¼ cup wine vinegar, 2 garlic cloves, pressed, 2 teaspoons chopped shallots (or green onions) and a pinch of chopped parsley. A pinch of ground cumin is optional if you want a spicier dressing.

In a deep glass bowl (or crystal if you want to be showy), arrange in thin layers the following, sprinkling each layer with salt and pepper: 2 bell peppers, seeded and thinly sliced; 4 firm tomatoes, peeled and finely diced; 2 cucumbers, unpeeled but seeded and chopped, and 1 sweet red or Spanish onion, peeled and chopped.

When vegetables have been layered and all are used, pour over the dressing and chill salad for several hours before serving. Makes 6 servings.

Cranberry punch warms chilled sports fans

It's the time of year for ice skating, skiing and sledding. After hours of frolicking in the cold winter air, it's nice to move indoors for a hot drink and some tasty snacks.

A spicy hot cranberry punch is a taste treat that is sure to be the hit of any after-party. And for added spark, guests will enjoy date-nut banana bread.

CRANBERRY PUNCH

- ¾ cup brown sugar, firmly packed
- 1 cup water
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon ground nutmeg
- ½ teaspoon ground allspice
- ½ teaspoon ground cinnamon
- ¾ teaspoon ground cloves
- 1 46-ounce can unsweetened pineapple juice
- 1½ quart bottle cranberry juice
- Cinnamon sticks

In a five-quart saucepan, mix sugar, salt, spices (except cinnamon sticks) and cranberry juice. Bring to a boil. Add pineapple juice to the hot spiced syrup and heat again to boiling. Serve in tall mugs. Garnish with cinnamon sticks as stirrers. This recipe makes 3¼ quarts or about 20 five-ounce servings.

DATE-NUT BANANA BREAD

- 1¾ cups flour
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- ½ teaspoon baking soda
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ¾ cup sugar
- ½ cup shortening
- 2 eggs
- 1 cup mashed bananas
- ½ cup chopped dates
- ½ cup chopped nuts

Mix flour, baking powder, baking soda and salt thoroughly. In a separate bowl, mix sugar, shortening, and eggs until light and fluffy. Blend in bananas, dates, and nuts. Add dry ingredients and stir just until smooth. Bake at 350 degrees in a 9x5-inch loaf pan for 50 to 60 minutes or until firmly set when touched lightly in the center.

Cool on rack for 10 minutes and remove from pan.

CRANBERRY PUNCH

Cheaper cut of beef chuck can be elegant dinner fare

Looking for an intriguing, elegant, but not too expensive main dish? Beef chuck roast with mushroom stuffing is an inexpensive way to serve an expensive-looking, delicious meal.

In addition to being an elegant dinner, it allows you to capitalize on two important economic factors: beef chuck roast is a less expensive beef cut, and, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture, beef supplies are abundant now.

Ask the meat cutter to cut a 3-inch thick chuck roast from the rib end of the chuck section of the beef carcass. A cut this thick should weigh about 4-5 pounds. Ask to have the roast cut horizontally to make two chuck steaks, each 1½-inches thick. At home, take a sharp boning knife and cut out the long slender blade bone in each steak, but leave the rib bone on the other side of each steak.

BEEF CHUCK ROAST WITH MUSHROOM STUFFING

- 4 lb. beef chuck roast, cut into two 1½ inch steaks
- 2/3 cup dry red table wine
- 1/3 cup salad oil
- 3 cloves of garlic, minced or mashed
- 1/8 teaspoon each rosemary, marjoram, thyme
- Freshly ground pepper to taste
- ½ lb. fresh mushrooms, sliced or 2 cans (4 oz. each) sliced mushrooms
- 6 tablespoons butter
- 3 green onions, finely chopped
- ¼ cup finely chopped parsley

For a marinade, mix together wine, oil, garlic, rosemary, marjoram, thyme, and pepper. Turn into a large shallow baking dish, add the beef chuck, and marinate in a refrigerator overnight. Turn the meat occasionally when you can.

For the stuffing, saute fresh mushrooms in butter until golden brown (or saute the drained canned mushrooms). Mix in chopped green onions and chopped parsley. Spoon in an ample amount of mushroom mixture over one chuck steak and arrange the second steak on top. Tie both steaks together securely with a string. Warm the extra mushroom mixture over low heat to serve with the cooked meat.

Broil the stuffed chuck for about 45 minutes making sure there's a distance of 5-6 inches between the top surface of the meat and your element of heat. Cook until medium rare. If the weather is suitable, a special flavor can be added by charcoaling the meat over medium coals for ubout the same time, allowing 20-25 minutes for each side.

To serve, cut away the string and slice on the diagonal into strips about ¼ inch thick. Serve additional mushroom stuffing on the side. Makes six servings.

As an alternative, you may wish to try your favorite oyster stuffing with this recipe in place of mushrooms.

Frozen bread book available

"Creative Baking with Frozen Bread Dough," a new booklet with 44 different recipes plus hints on handling frozen bread dough, is available to consumers from the manufacturers of Rhodes frozen bread doughs.

A table of metric equivalents for common kitchen measures is included along with recipes such as onion rolls, English muffins, Meat Loaf Wellington, deep dish pizza, and peach kuchen. Holiday ideas include Valentine Rosebuds, Hot Cross Buns, St. Patrick's Day Hat and Easter Egg Nest.

Copies of the booklet may be obtained by sending 50 cents and name and address to Rhodes Recipe Booklet Offer, 1909 E. Cornell Drive, Peoria, Ill. 61614.

To remove onion odor

Onion odors can be removed from a knife by running it through a raw potato. Onion odors can be removed from your hands by rubbing your hands briskly with celery salt before washing. If you don't want your breath to smell of onions, eat a few sprigs of parsley that have been dipped in salt or vinegar.

Menu suggestions using onions: cream of onion and celery soup; baked whole onions, baked fresh onion and tomato casserole; onion and mushroom casserole; curry topped onion pot pie; onion pies with fresh mushroom sauce; shish kebab with onion; baked stuffed onion; stuffed onions with spinach and bacon; onion and potato au gratin; scalloped meat with eggplant and onion; baked onion and beef casserole.

Toasted walnuts

Toasting is a fine way to enhance the natural fresh flavor and crisp texture of California walnuts in recipes. This helps keep the popular ingredient nut's nice tawny color in milk and creamy mixtures, too. One of the best ways is easy. Simply drop shelled kernels into rapidly boiling water. Boil 3 minutes, then drain well. Spread kernels in a shallow pan. Bake at 350 degrees F. for 12-15 minutes, stirring often. Cool. To make salad or soup croutons, snacks, or gifts from your kitchen, toss hot walnuts in melted butter and sprinkle with salt or seasoned salt.

Little expense but lots of praise

Those who plan to entertain — despite higher food costs — will find chicken dishes done with a special flare a great way to economize. For example, Chicken Breasts Supreme may contain mushrooms, black olives and slivered almonds but the cost per serving works out to 90 cents if you bone the chicken breasts yourself. A Curried Chicken Casserole with crunchy green beans and water chestnuts costs 36 cents per serving. Both dishes will make your family or friends sit up and take notice of your expertise.

CHICKEN BREASTS SUPREME

2 whole broiler-fryer chicken breasts, halved, boned
2 tablespoons margarine
1 can (2 ounces) sliced mushrooms, drained
¼ cup sliced pitted black olives
½ cup slivered almonds
1 package (3 ounces) cream cheese
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
¼ cup salad oil
2 teaspoons parsley flakes

Pound chicken breasts to ¼-inch thickness. In a small fry pan, saute mushrooms, olives and almonds in margarine. Place ¼ of cream cheese on each breast half; top with ¼ of sauteed mixture. Roll breast pieces, completely encasing cheese filling. Secure with small skewers or food picks. Sprinkle chicken with salt and pepper. Heat oil in 10-inch fry pan. Brown chicken rolls on all sides. Transfer chicken rolls to baking dish. Sprinkle with parsley flakes. Tightly cover baking dieh; bake at 350 degrees for 45 minutes or until brown and fork tender. Makes 4 servings (Cost per serving — 90 cents based on breast with bone-in, deboned at home.)

CURRIED CHICKEN CASSEROLE

2 cups diced cooked chicken
¼ cup flour
½ cup mayonnaise
2½ cups chicken broth or bouillon
2 teaspoons curry powder
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1 small onion (¼ cup) finely chopped
2 cups quick cooking rice, prepared as package directs
1 package (10 ounces) frozen French style green beans, cooked, drained
1 can (8 ounces) water chestnuts, drained, sliced (optional)
½ cup fine dry bread crumbs
2 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted

In a saucepan, blend flour and mayonnaise. Gradually stir in broth. Add curry powder, lemon juice and onion. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, 5 to 10 minutes or until thickened. In a greased 2-quart baking dish, layer half of the rice, beans, chicken, water chestnuts and sauce; repeat layering. Mix bread crumbs with margarine; sprinkle over top. Bake at 350 degrees for 25 to 30 minutes or until bubbly. Makes 8 servings. (Cost per serving — 36 cents.)

Tips on serving various cheeses

Best ways to serve: use a cheese board for cheeses; most of these come with a spreader that's handy for spreading or even cutting the cheese. Do serve bread and crackers in a separate basket or container so the cheese board is not too crowded for cutting.

Thin-bladed knives do the best cutting job on semi-firm cheeses like the blue-veined ones such as Blue. Chunks of these taste better than thin slices.

There are several ways to serve Edam and Gouda cheeses. They may be cut in wedges with the wax covering left on or they may be served with wax coating cut away at the top or turned back to form petals; with a cheese scoop or scooped out; or with cheese whipped and returned to shell.

"Eyes" or holes in certain types of cheeses are caused by the bacteria used in their manufacture. These contribute to their nutlike flavor. Swiss cheese has the large holes while Gruyere has smaller ones.

Observe one cardinal rule in cooking cheese: little cooking at low heat. Cheese is a protein food and like other similar foods, it is toughened by high heat as well as overcooking.

Since cheese is made from concentrated milk (10 pounds of milk equals 1 pound of cheese), it is an excellent source of protein as well as calcium. Ounce for ounce, cheese has the same protein value as meat, pountry, fish or eggs. One and one-half ounces of Cheddar cheese contain about the same calcium as one cup of milk.

Cheese accents French beignets

Beignets often are called "puff-fritters" because this French creation does not have an English name. The word is used by the French to describe any item of food dipped in batter and deep fried. However, "fritter" is a misnomer for this food since all beignets are supposed to be light and most fritters are heavy. Cheese Beignets go well at a party as hors d'oeuvres or may be served with your favorite meat, fish or poultry dish.

CHEESE BEIGNETS

1 cup water
½ cup peanut oil
1 cup unsifted flour
½ teaspoon salt
4 eggs
½ cup grated Parmesan cheese
1 tablespoon instant minced onion
2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
Peanut oil

Bring water and peanut oil to a full boil. Lower heat and add flour and salt all at once. Beat vigorously until mixture leaves the sides of the saucepan. Remove from heat. Add eggs, one at a time, beating vigorously after each addition. Continue beating until mixture is smooth and velvety. Beat in Parmesan cheese, onion and Worcestershire sauce. Drop by teaspoonfuls into deep hot (375 degree) peanut oil. Fry until golden brown, turning once. Drain on absorbent paper. Serve hot. Makes about 60 puffs.

'Last train' wends way home for weary

The Midnight Special . . . a time to yawn.

by BARRY SIGALE

As soon as the commuter train departs from the Madison Avenue depot and begins its hushed journey into the bitter cold, early morning darkness, James K. Fischer turns on his side, brushes the hair out of his eyes and falls asleep.

He thus joins a select group of people, immortalized in repose, riding the last train out to the Northwest suburbs. He is abord the "Midnight Special" and he fits in nicely.

Fischer, of Mount Prospect, is one of about 50 persons on the 12:32 a.m. run accommodating the late night commuter at work or at play in Chicago.

He had planned to be home at a relatively normal hour but stayed for an office party at his downtown stock brokerage firm. He finds himself on the final trip, a little too inebriated, very tired and minus his topcoat which he left at the office. "I've been doing a lot of drinking lately," he jokes, referring to the shape of the plummeting stock market.

OTHERS ON the train have had a drink or two or more and seek solace in the cushiony brown seats to stretch out and relax and eventually melt into. In contrast to the fast paced, hustle-bustle of the morning and afternoon rush hours, the 12:32 train provides quietude for its riders. It is a long, albeit, slow, jerky ride by the time stops are made at every station all the way out to Harvard some one hour and 48 minutes later.

For every passenger there is a story. A Crystal Lake man, a regular on this run, elaborately sets up a comfortable row of seats on the top deck in which to sleep. When the arrives at his destination and without the benefit of being aroused by the conductor, he jumps up and exits.

A Park Ridge resident who usually totes on board a couple of six packs of beer and a pint of liquor in his back pocket is talked about fondly. More often than not he is met at the station by a police car, waiting to take him to the drunk tank for sobering up.

OF A MORE SERIOUS note is the incidences of rock and bottling throwing that occurs when the train passes through Chicago. The vandals have not caused any injuries but have a pretty good aim when it comes to hitting windows.

Not all the passengers are drinkers, to be sure, says John Weber, ticket collector, who claims more teetotalers can be found on the late night North Shore run to Wilmette than the Northwest suburban trip. In any case, railroad personnel are not on board to provide a wake up service. It is not their responsibility, though they are usually asked in advance by some riders to tell them or nudge them when their stop is near.

Wiating for the train can also be quite an experience. The darkened, practically empty waiting room is an equally quiet place with a few wayward souls sliding through to destinations unknown.

MITCHELL HERSHEWAY is the chief passenger agent on the midnight shift. He's a dead ringer for organized-crime fighter Charles Siragusa but his main claim to fame is that he is a friend of Mayor Richard J. Daley. "I've known him 40 years," he said. "We're on a first name basis. He and my wife go to church every Sunday for 7:30 mass."

What goes on late at night at the depot is right out of some Woody Allen comedy sample and Hersheway can tell stories with the best of them.

"You should see the winos," he says as he futilely sets out to find one. "We don't dig 'em up," he says. "We smell 'em."

"You see that pay phone? Sailors get propositioned on that phone all the time. Girls call here about now. Then they talk to the guys who answer and arrange to meet somewhere."

A drunk walks by and Hersheway greets him. "We call him buggy," he says. "He's always scratching himself."

MOST PEOPLE are oblivious to Hersheway until he walks through the waiting room to announce the train is about to leave or he attempts to wake some of them.

"I had a lawyer take a swing at me a few weeks ago," he says. "He knocked my hat and glasses off." Another guy took a poke at Hersheway, who was trying to wake him, and chased him into the railroad's office. "They swat you, bite you, kick you," sums up Hersheway. Still, he thinks riders traveling on the Chicago and North Western Ry. are class people.

About then a guy and his wife come strolling by, pushing an automobile tire through the station. It seems their car developed a flat tire and they are taking the spare on the train with them. Why? It's too complicated to tell.

Immortalized in repose, the passengers on the last commuter train to the Northwest suburbs are a curious lot . . . they doze off and otherwise drain off the tensions of another busy day in the big city.

The riders seek solice in the cushiony brown seats into which they stretch and eventually melt. The 12:32 a.m. run provides a quietude for their journey home.

Midnight is cleaning time at the train station.
